120 Kiddies To Take Part In Operetta

The children of the local grade schools will present the tuncful and colorful operetta "Twilight Alley" Friday evening, April 21, at the High School Gymnasium. The operetta will be directed by Miss Mildred Hanselman, Music Supervisor of the local schools, assisted at the piano by Miss George Barry.

The cast is unusually large taking in about one hundred and twenty five children, all of whom have been working hard to make this year's offering surpass last year's successful operetta. The music is catchy, the kind you like to whistle. A wide range of characters gives opportunity for pretty effects in costuming. The story centers around a meeting of the daughter of a rich landlord with the children who live in his old tumble-down tenement, "The Old Shoe" in Twilight Alley.

The proceeds will go to swell the school piano fund. Tickets on sale at Koch's.

INTEREST BUT NO PROFIT FROM "MERELY GOOD" HEN

It's Producer Above Average That Nets Premium Over All Costs—Last 46 Eggs Tell.

It's only the last 40 or 50 eggs which the better-than average hens lay that bring the owner a profit over all costs of production.

"The poultryman whose flock averages 140 to 150 eggs per hen receives interest on his investment but no pay for his labor," says A. G. Lunn, head of the poultry husbandry at the O. A. C. Experiment station.

"With a well bred flock properly cared for the production would be from 180 to 200 eggs a year. This would net him a profit of 90 cents a fowl."

"It is often found in analyzing farm records that the producer who is above the average obtains an extra premium for his products, as he gets the extra two or four dozen eggs in the early fall when eggs are high."

"The flock averaging 144 eggs in the year produces the largest number of them in late winter, spring, and early summer when eggs are cheap. The poultryman who gets the extra eggs actually receive more for them than would be shown in the average price received per year on the average farm."

The average overhead expenses on a commercial poultry farm consisting of interest on investment, taxes, and depreciation, equals the cost of feed, it was found through farm survey work.

The cost of feeding a fowl on the average commercial poultry farm is between $1.50 and $2 a year, points out Professor Lunn. On the farm the cost is probably cut one-half as a hen obtains some food from by-products.

With eggs averaging 30 cents a dozen it would require six dozen eggs to pay for the feed.

The average production of Oregon fowls is about 100 eggs a year. On the commercial poultry farm it averages from 140 to 150 eggs. This will leave six dozen to pay interest on investment in buildings and equipment and to furnish a profit to the producer.

In Memorial of Freeman J. Jackson

Whereas it has pleased our Heavenly Father to call our brother Freeman J. Jackson from this earthly lodge to the lodge on high,

Be it resolved: That we as a lodge extend our sincere sympathy to the bereaved family of our brother.

Resolved further: That our Chapter be draped in mourning during a period of thirty days as a mark of respect for our deceased brother.

Resolved further: That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the records of this lodge, that a copy be sent to the family of our brother, and that these resolutions be published in The Tillamook Herald.

Respectfully submitted,
