

How Stands Our Own Community In the Competition Among the Cities?

Flies and Mosquitos Add Nothing to Health and Happiness, Nor Do Dirty Streets and Refuse.

The new census shows a great growth in population especially in the towns and cities. We know from the bank statistics and from many other sources, that the United States has grown tremendously in wealth. The people have more savings deposits, more bonds and stocks, more life insurance and more of everything that shows solid material wealth. Our cities and towns are growing at a rapid rate, so far as population and wealth are concerned. It is not the only way a city should grow? Should it not grow in beauty, in the things that make life more worth living, in social activities, in those things which uplift spirit and especially should it not grow in the promotion of health and the reduction of the death rate?

The spirit of America is not a one for bigger things and more things, but it is especially for better things. That really is "the great unrest." The people want better things, better living and growing conditions. They are not satisfied merely to see their cities grow large in population and business. They want it to grow also in those things which make life more pleasant and more free from sickness and from the distress caused by loss of employment through disease and epidemics.

Everywhere there is this demand for these better living conditions. People are reaching out for them. Mostly in quiet ways, because they do not know just what to do to get them. Many do not realize that they can produce these conditions for themselves if they will only work together to get them. Any city can be healthful and beautiful and a desirable place to live in, if its citizens will pull together to make it so. There is no need to make a campaign, to stir things to pieces, to get one portion of the community against another. What is needed is cooperation and unity of effort on the part of all in the following of some particular and practical plan.

Shabbytown vs Glossyville

In Shabbytown they do not care if things look seedy everywhere. They have no pep, they've lost their grip, they simply sit around and yip, in envy's tones, of Glossyville, the shining village on the hill. Oh, Shabbytown is punk and gray, and it shows symptoms of decay, and strangers passing through remark, "It surely dates back to the Ark." "Clean Up and Paint Up" makes men tremble along the streets of Shabbytown. A can of paint makes no appeal to this bum village, down at heel; the people think there is no sense in going to so much expense, so things are always going down, and getting worse in Shabbytown. It always gives my soul a thrill when I arrive in Glossyville. The town looks like a burning halo; the people take a hearty pride in making things look clean and bright, and in their labors take delight. They're lavish with the helpful paint, selecting colors wisely, or quaint, not decorating every shack; they warding off decay's attack, and making all the buildings look like buildings read of in a book. And strangers, when they see the town, say, "Here we'll come and settle down, and raise us nineteen kids apiece, and live and die as sick as grease." This happy burg goes right ahead, while Shabbytown is prone and dead.

WALT MASON

A City That Grows Only in Population and Business Is Not Growing at All—It Is Only Swelling Up.

temination, but half the patriotic spirit that we devote to making the world a "fit place to live in," we shall soon have the most beautiful and healthful cities in the world. We ought to have them. We have the intelligence, the appreciation for good things. All we need is the cooperative spirit, the ability to work together democratically and loyally for the common good. With this spirit the Clean-Up and Paint-Up campaign can be made a wonderful success. The city can be made more beautiful and prosperous the amount of sickness and the death rate can be appreciably reduced and every one can be happier in the fuller enjoyment of his life, his work and his play.

POSTAL IMPROVEMENT WEEK IS OBSERVED

May 1 Sees Inaugurated First General Campaign of Kind in Service.

Without the Postal Service, business would languish in a day, and be at a standstill in a week. Public opinion would die of dry rot. Sectional hatred and prejudice only would flourish, and narrow-mindedness thrive. It is the biggest distinctive business in the world and it comes nearer to the innermost interests of a greater number of men and women than any other institution on earth. No private business, however widespread, touches so many lives so often and so sharply; no church reaches into so many souls, flutters so many pulses, has so many human beings dependent on its ministrations. "Postal Improvement Week" has been set for May 1, by the Postmaster General. This is the first general campaign of its kind in the Postal Service for several decades. Business men and their organizations, large users of the mail, newspapers, motion pictures, advertisers, and the entire organization of 325,000 postal workers are to be enlisted in this country-wide campaign of interest in postal improvements. Your help is vital. Address your letters plainly with pen or typewriter. Give street address. Spell out name of State, don't abbreviate. Put your return address in the upper left hand corner of envelope (not on the back) and always look at your letter before dropping in the mail to see if it is properly addressed. This care in the use of the mails is for your benefit and speeds up the dispatch and delivery of mail matter. If you have any complaints of poor service make them to your postmaster. He has instructions to investigate them and report to the department.

COURTESY
It sticks in human relations like postage stamps on letters. The POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT expects it to be used by its postmasters and employees in dealing with the public. Help them in its use beginning with POSTAL IMPROVEMENT WEEK, May 1-6, 1922.

THANK YOU
We often see a man so lazy his wife even as to go to church for him.

The Town Cow And Her Owner

Every family that can afford to do so should keep a cow. It's mighty fine to have an abundance of milk and cream and home-made butter. By packing surplus butter to be used during the time the cow is dry and by feeding skim milk to chickens or calves, any family can easily use all the milk given by one cow. Hundreds of calves will be knocked in the head at birth during the next few weeks in this vicinity unless saved from such fate by those able to care for and feed them. The farmer cannot keep all of them.
