H. H. Goddard has gone to Sacramento to visit his uncle, L. L. Goddard.

BORN—On the 29, inst, to Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Helms, of Talent, a son.

Ira Wakefield has a little mustang mare that commenced nipping grass and kicking up her heels in 1857, thirty-seven years ago. She seems good for twenty years yet.

Scores of typographical errors find their way into the News, but ye editor and proof reader breathe easier after reading the clipping relating to the office terms of Oregon governors in last issue of the Record.

H. H. and O. R. Goddard have sold their interests in the estate of B. C. Goddard, deceased, to Mrs. M. H. Coleman and Mrs. W. J. Dean.

Mr. S. M. Robison has been suffering for several days with what the physician calls perforation of the drum of the ear.

The pain is excruciating. Both ears are affected, causing temporary deafness.

Gov. Pennoyer, while in Jacksonville yesterday, received a telegram stating that a mob had threatened to release the band of Coxeyites that Cleveland's troops had captured and landed in jail in Portland, and asking for orders.

The Governor wired back:

"I have no orders. If Cleveland's army has captured Coxey's army, let Cleveland's army take care of Coxey's army."

Sylvester Pennoyer.

Walker Conwill will start back to Georgia in a few days on a visit. Some are "guessing" that there is some special attraction back there. However he says he will return to Southern Oregon.

Mr. S. G. Netherland, having received the appointment applied for months ago will soon be ready to discharge the duties of postmaster at Talent, with his son, Leo, as deputy.

Depew says, "The average Democrat is so illiquising about this wise: 'Am I a Cleveland Democrat, or a Hill Democrat, or a silver Democrat, or a hard-money Democrat, or a monomelalist or—what in the devil am I?'"

At the Democratic primary held at Talent last Friday John Briner and A. L. Alford were elected delegates to the county convention.

Mrs. Boyd Robison and little daughter met with what might easily have been a serious if not fatal accident the other day.

The family had just returned from town when Mr. Robison proceeded to unhitch the horses from the hack before Mrs. R. and child had alighted. One trace, however, he failed to unloose, and, attempting to lead the horses away they became frightened and unmanageable and overturned the hack, the occupants falling underneath. The tug fastening parted however and Mrs. R. and child escaped without injury save a severe bruise upon Mrs. R's knee.
