

An Invitation to the JOYMAKERS' PICNIC

It's RED CROWN for the EXPERIENCED MOTORIST

Regularly, thousands of other motorists seek the woods, mountains, seashore playgrounds out-of-town—and make week-ends a pleasure—playing or loafing as they choose. But this week-end why not make it your fun for a change? There are hundreds of nooks delightfully secluded, ready and inviting—within range of a few gallons of "Red Crown." Make up the party for your week-end picnic—over the phone tonight; the "Red Crown" you can get as you need it, uniformly good, economical and powerful wherever you go.

Trade at Home

You can't possibly go to Portland and back, eat and sleep there, for less than $10, counting your fare. If you write it takes time, postage, express and the satisfaction of knowing that you buy there, that way, sight unseen. Many things we could mention are lower in price in Vernonia than in Portland. Our merchant doesn't add $10 to his article or doesn't profiteer on the express. The Portland merchant doesn't care for you after he has your dollar and the mail order houses don't know anything about you. If you live in Vernonia you certainly want to build up the town, then why not spend your money at home. It is a puzzle we can't understand.

One woman recently remarked that she was an old timer here but never spent any of her money with the home merchant—can you imagine it. The home merchant is interested in you and the town. It is he that sits up with your sick or dead; it is he that helps keep up your roads, that pays for the school, that helps build churches, that donates to every cause that comes along. Considering all these things we can't see how anyone here would trade by the mail order route simply because they might save for the day a few pennies on some trifling article.

Yes, it is beyond us. The same people wear out the home sidewalk the home merchant builds. Does it look fair?

A soviet judge at Warsaw sentenced seven highwaymen to death. Nothing surprising in that fact. But when it develops that the judge is a bobbed-hair girl of twenty the case takes on an international aspect of interest.

If it is true that Einstein's theory of relativity has come to stay, as Professor Michelson of Chicago university asserts, is it not about time that some one promulgated a theory as to what Einstein's theory is?

Scientists are predicting that in about 25,000,000 years the continents will sink into the sea. We needn't worry about that, though—doubtless we shall be able to evolve gills by that time.

The extent of Japan's confidence in Russia's friendly advances can be judged by the fact that when the Japanese fishing fleet sails toward the Siberian coast a convoy of gunboats goes along.

That Patagonian tertiary skull was not a skull after all. Anyway, the tertiary period was so many hundreds of thousands of years ago that the very oldest settler hates to remember it.

These are hard days on the married man. In addition to scopolamine along comes a doctor with a "retinoscope" which can detect a person telling a lie.

The average city man who has stood in a blistering hot field for ten minutes knows why farm labor is scarce.

Noisiest Ball Fan

Baltimore boasts of the noisiest baseball rooster. Armed with an auto horn he invades the Oriole ball park and does his loudest to disconcert the visiting pitcher or batter at a critical moment. Recently he became so boisterous that the manager of the Buffalo team sent an official protest to President Toole of the International league. The executive sent word to his umpire to see that the auto horn was not rested atop the visiting players' dugout.

MANAGER PAT MORAN HAS MANY TWIRLERS

Red Pitchers Adept at Every Style of Delivery.

"We have one great asset in our pitching staff," says Pat Moran, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, "and that's different styles of deliveries. I don't ever remember seeing so many different methods of pitching in my whole career. A club that can send in pitchers of varying styles has a big advantage over teams whose pitchers seem to be made in the same mold.

"The champion Cubs had it over all competitors in this respect. Brown's delivery was utterly different from that of Reulbach, and Big Ed, in turn, threw shoots that had no likeness to those of Lundgren or Overall. Each of the four great right-handers had his own method of delivery, his own set of curves, and not a particle of similarity between any two of them. Add to this layout the left-handed Pfeister, and the combination was too much for the other fellows.

"Our present staff shows wonderful variety. Rixey and Benton, both left-handers, have wholly differing styles of work. Donahue and Keck, who should both be great winners this season, employ opposite deliveries, Donahue sending them from up high, while Keck has an underhanded shoot that's a wonder. Couch's style hasn't the least resemblance to that of either Keck or Donahue, and Luque, again, doesn't pitch like any of the three other right-handers.

"We can give the hostile batters a flock of different stuff this summer, and can mix things up against them all the time. And I think that is going to help the good cause considerably."
