Launching of a crusade that will continue until the prohibition statutes are thoroughly enforced in Oregon, Washington and Idaho, is the stated aim of the anti-saloon league of the three states which are sponsoring the Northwest Citizens' Law Enforcement Congress, to be held in Portland, on June 3 to 5.

Not only will the dry officers' relation to bootlegging activities be discussed, but the responsibility of the individual, the parent, the church, the press and the prosecutors, is to be given a thorough airing, according to W. J. Herwig, superintendent of the Oregon Anti-Saloon League.

Dr. Charles McCaughey, pastor of Centenary-Wilbur Methodist Church, Portland, will discuss the individual responsibility to law obedience and enforcement; Mayor George L. Baker is to deal with the parent's relationship; Dr. J. Ralph Magee, pastor of First Methodist Church, Seattle, will give his views on the church's responsibility; B. F. Irvine, editor of The Oregon Journal, will speak on "The Press and Law Enforcement."

An entire afternoon will be devoted to the question of the officer and law enforcement, with Thomas P. Revelle, U. S. District Attorney for Western Washington, discussing it from the U. S. Attorney's standpoint.

U. S. District Attorney John S. Coke, of Oregon, will show the need for co-operation among law enforcement officers; George Neuner, Jr., former district attorney of Douglas County, and long active in special investigation work, is to give his conclusions, and State Senator B. L. Eddy, of Roseburg, is programmed for an address on "Co-operation of Citizens With Officials in the Enforcement of the Law."

"Pussyfoot" Johnson has been booked for the principal address on the evening of June 4 at White Temple and Governor Neff will give the concluding address at the same place the following evening.

Gov. Neff who has supported the congress since its first announcement, will preside at the closing session. He has agreed also, to deliver the keynote address at 8 p. m., June 4, at White Temple, where all the sessions will be held.
