WHY THE KNOCKER KNOCKS

Why do people knock, when it is so clearly for their interest to shout for the good old home town? A bit of jealousy, perhaps, in some cases. Some folks dislike to see others go ahead and attain prominence in community organizations. They regard themselves as equally temptd to carp at others who re capable of leadership, hence feel given responsibility. Yet they would not probably take off their own coats and put in the hard licks the other fellow is giving.

A desire to air their own wit, sometimes. They are like the idle man sitting in the cool shade, to whom the sweating worker in the corn-field may often seem grotesque. Swollen ideas sometimes. Some folks visit great cities and come home sore because their home town has no skyscrapers or other metropolitan developments. Cities and towns, however, like people, are most lovable when they develop along the lines of their own personality, rather than aping others.

Some loyal friends of their home city cherish great dreams for its future. All fine and inspiring. But don't get your head so far in the clouds that you lose step with the dusty toilers who are pushing your community up the hill of progress one step at a time.

Much so called knocking is mere thoughtlessness, the careless words of people who have some knowledge and are not averse to exhibiting the same. People who keep up a running fire of detraction against those who are attempting to do community work, are about as welcome as a rain storm on Picnic day. They tend to make people give up their hopes and settle into the dull routine of yesterday.

Communities are carried ahead by faith and enthusiasm. One plain man who loves his home town so much that he always talks of its achievements rather than its defects, but who quietly takes hold to remove faults, is worth a dozen superior intellects who are always analyzing the things without taking any action.

Eavesdropping at the rural telephone is more prevalent than ever was at the keyhole, detection being so much less provable. It is said that one sign of eavesdropping is the receding tone of the speaker's voice. Some one has "cut in." Acting on this hint, a woman who had her suspicious aroused said to her friend suddenly: "Some one is listening." Instantly, from nowhere in particular in a strange voice, came an indignant exclamation: "I'm not doing any such a thing."

Stop yer kickin' 'bout the times, get a hustle on you! Skirmish 'round and grab the dimes, of the dollars shun you. Croakin' never bought a dress, Growlin' isn't in it; fix your peepers on success, then go in to win it. Times is gettin' good agin—Try to help them all you kin.

Don't sit 'round with hanging lip, that is sure to floor you; Try to git a better grip on the work before you. Put some ginger in yer words, when you greet a neighbor, throw your troubles to the birds, git right down to abor, an' you'll notice ev'ry day, things is comin' right your way.

Stop yer kickin', get a hold of the wheel and turn it; you kin never handle gold' less you try to earn it. Brush the cobwebs from yer eyes, stop yer durn repinin', an' you'll notice that yer skies allus'll be shinin'. If you hain't the nerve to try, sneak away somewheres an' die.
