The Government printing office is considerably larger than the Eagle of fice. In fact, the government printing office, construction and equipment, costs ten million dollars, and their annual printing production will run probably over 12,000,000 at the average prices. They print everything, blanks, etc. Imagine getting one job for $2,000,000 income tax forms to be turned out in thirty days, or 200,000,000 money order applications or a stack of postal cars that would be 200 miles high if stacked. Yes, it's a big plant and turns out considerable more work than the Eagle office. It employs about 3000 people, besides operating 99 linotypes
