Ichthyologists now tell that many fish are capable of emitting sounds. Yes, we know a poor fish that went down to court and emitted sounds because a bootlegger had sold him cold tea for pre-war stuff. Same color, you know.

A hundred-million-dollar whisky merger in London indicates that prohibition is not making much progress in the British Isles. English sentiment will no doubt regard the inauspicious situation as largely due to the iniquitous temptations held out by the American bootlegger.

A New York woman inherited, among other things, $10,000 worth of cigars when her husband died. These ought to smoke out another hubby.

EXPENSIVE DRINKING

The City Recorder of our county seat, J. E. Beeler, says the bootlegger and drinker are disobeying laws and ordinances. Evidently there was a little drinking in St. Helena Saturday night, as per following in Mist:

In addition to his regular duties as recorder and water clerk, J. E. Beeler had a grist of trial cases before him this week. It appears that a number of people wished to celebrate Saturday night and Sunday and some of them came to grief.

Glen Clark and T. A. Evans were raising a disturbance in the Clark residence in Columbia Park. The celebration was so loud that neighbors reported the matter and Marshal Connor was called. The celebration ceased. Clark paid a fine of $150 on two charges, drunk and disorderly conduct. Evans was fined $50.

Marshal Connor nabbed Floyd McKie (McKie is not his right name) when he found that the man had two pints on his person. He pleaded guilty to the charge of possessing liquor and was fined $250. After spending two days in jail he managed to raise the $250.

J. F. Ryan was too hilarious in a down town restaurant, the marshal said. He testified that he had warned Ryan to go home earlier in the evening, but possibly Ryan forgot the marshal's instruction, for he came back and instead of going home was put in jail.

Ryan demanded a trial. He was positive that he was not drunk and one witness testified as to his sobriety. Other witnesses, however, testified that Ryan was drunk and the marshal was positive that he was. Recorder Beeler fined Mr. Ryan $250 and Ryan paid the fine. It was only a few months ago that Ryan was arrested by state and county authorities when they found a quantity of liquor in his tailor shop. He was fined $500 by Judge Storia.

President Coolidge has a good old fashioned way of taming senators. He feeds the brutes. When a senator begins to buck against party discipline, he is invited to a White House breakfast, and is fed on sausages and hot cakes with pure Vermont Maple syrup from Coolidge's own county. After that he is as tame and gentle as Mary's little lamb.

Senator Borah demands action on relief for the farmers. Let's see, just what is it they want, $3 wheat?

OREGON LEADS WORLD IN TIMBER WEALTH

California Takes Second With Washington a Close Third.

Three hundred ninety-five billion, seven hundred seventy-six million, two hundred and twenty-nine thousand feet is the estimate amount of timber that remains uncut in the State of Oregon which is distributed over 19,000,000 acres of forest land in this state.

California has 284,505,000,000 feet of timber over a forest area of 15,032,032,000 acres of land.

The State of Washington ranks a close third with almost as much standing timber as the two leading states.

The above figures were prepared by the California State Forester M. B. Pratt, who stated that this places California as having the second largest timber area and resources of any locality in the world with Oregon ranking first.

If a hundred thousand useless jobs in Washington were abolished, rents would drop but the problem of signaling Mars would be solved by the ensuing howl.
