THE REAL "HICK TOWN"

Just a few days ago, according to a dispatch to daily papers from New York, a white cat leaped on the front end of a street car, perched itself on the motor box, and tied up traffic on Broadway for ten minutes. The good-natured motorman let it stay, and refused to shove the cat aside and move his car. So hundreds of autos jammed in confusion, and within a period of ten minutes more than a thousand people were pushing and shoving and tearing their way towards the car. They were not disappointed, either, when they saw that it was only a cat blocking traffic, for such a thing was a novelty. New Yorkers delight in calling residents of smaller cities, and especially those from towns the size of Vernonia by the familiar name of "hicks." But there is only one town on earth where a cat could tie up traffic, and that town, after all is said and done, leads the world in "hick" population. The town we refer to is New York.

21,000,000 FARM MAGAZINE READERS

Reached, and inaugurating the whole campaign is the Northern Pacific, participating with the Great Northern and the Burlington railroads, in the joint advertising on behalf of Oregon in national farm journals. Preparing for Oregon month, the first one appearing in 20 farm journals, reaching 21,116,847 readers with the story of farm opportunities in Oregon; the second appearing in 14 national farm journals reaching 10,000,000 farm people, and as a result of this advertising the railroad have secured 5000 good prospects who have written to us asking for more information about the state. They have also issued what we believe to be one of the very best hand-books on Oregon opportunities ever issued, "Oregon for the Farmer," which is being widely distributed by railroads and other agencies.
