A British scientist is asking how old a man is at 40, and the best answer to that is that he's old enough to know better, but often doesn't act that way.
That New Mexican scientist who now claims that the earth is hollow must have some inside information.

WATER POWER IS 138 MILLION H. P.

One hundred and thirty-eight million water horsepower are available for the work of the world, according to the first complete survey of hydraulic power sources just made from documents submitted at the World Power Conference, held in London last summer.

Of all countries, the United States is richest in this "white coal," both developed and undeveloped, with Canada second.

Figures for the leading countries are given as follows:

| | Power Developed | Power Available in H.P. |
|---------------|--------------------|-------------------------------|
| United States | 9,000,000 | 34,500,000 | | Canada | 3,225,000 | 18,250,000 | | Sweden | 1,400,000 | 11,600,000 | | Norway | 1,325,000 | 11,000,000 | | Switzerland | 1,490,000 | 8,000,000 | | India | 340,000 | 7,500,000 | | Japan | 1,694,000 | 6,415,000 | | France | 1,350,000 | 5,350,000 | | Germany | Not stated | 1,830,000 |
| Great Britain | 250,000 | 280,000 |

ASK FOR IT.
"The only race you win," says Ray Brouillet, "is the one in which you finish first."

"The only sale that pays is the sale you close. And you never close a sale you're not enthusiastic about, for your enthusiasm is the measure of your determination to accomplish it."

"Did you ever see a pessimistic hen? Did you ever know of one starving to death, waiting for the worms to come to the surface? Did you ever hear one cackle because of hard times? Not on your life. She saves her breath for digging, and her cackle is a cackle of triumph—she's laid an egg."

"When people ask me how I find business, I tell 'em 'by looking for it.' The fellow that says he can't find business is like the guy that takes a milk pail into the pasture and waits for the cow to back up to it. If you want milk go after the cow. She's willing."

THE OTHER
MAN'S JOB
By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

"I SUPPOSE you'll have nothing to do now until September," Smith said to me at commencement time.
"Absolutely nothing," I replied, for it is less exhausting to agree with a man like that than it is to try to give him an idea of the endless list of things waiting to be done whenever the days of apparent leisure shall come.

Smith is a retired farmer who lives near me and whose regular work is accomplished when he has fed the chickens and mowed the lawn. Like many another man he is possessed of the imbecile idea that a college instructor during the summer and regular vacations is as free from mental and physical work as a spring lamb.
When his class is dismissed his work is done.

It has always been interesting to me that most people are likely to consider the other man's job easier than their own, and not infrequently to express the conviction that if they were holding his job they would do it better than he is doing it.

I listened a few weeks ago to Gail Curet's incomparable singing. The perfection of her art was to me marvelous. Behind me in the auditorium were two men apparently with some amateurish knowledge of music and musical terms.

"There's nothing remarkable about her singing," one of the men remarked.
"She just does it naturally."

"There is no reason why anybody should not learn to sing that way, if he would but give himself over to it," the other assented. Before the end of the evening they were both convinced that they could do as well as this woman. Strange it is how confident we are of our ability to handle the other man's job.

Most men advise their sons to avoid the business or the profession which they themselves have followed. It is asked why, their invariable reply is "There is nothing in it but trouble and hard work. I don't want my son to go through what I've gone through."

And so the farmer trains his son to be a merchant, and the physician sends his boy to an engineering school, and the engineer advises his young hopeful to study law, each with the idea that he is making it possible for the boy to get the maximum returns for the minimum expenditure of time and effort, and in the belief that the other man's job is far easier than his own.

The real facts are that no job is easy if it is done well. Every business or profession has its exacting demands, its annoyances, its disagreeable features, its difficulties and its failures.
There are few snags in the world; even the teaching profession, if one is to be successful, demands that one have energy, a little brains at least, some training, and a willingness to work at least twelve months in the year. The same thing is true of almost any other job.

NOTICE OF ANNUAL SCHOOL MEETING

Notice is hereby given to the legal voters of Union High School District

Oregon, that the annual school meeting of said district will be held Monday of June, being the 22nd day of June, A. D. 1925.

This meeting is called for the purpose of electing one director to serve for a period of five years and said director must be a resident of the Pettijohn district and the transaction of business usual at such meeting.

nsten, District Clerk. 42-3t

TIMBERMEN VISIT AT EAGLE OFFICE

We received a very pleasant call as we were printing last weeks paper from Editor Geo. M. Cornwall of "The Timberman" an international lumber journal, printed in Portland and Mr. Robert G. Kay, president of the Kay Lumber company of Philadelphia, Penn. The gentlemen were looking over our city and lumber holdings adjacent and visited the large O.-A. mill here.

Mr. Bryan of the Halton Merc., Co., was in Portland Saturday and Sunday.

Practically all of the business houses were decorated with the stars and stripes last Saturday.

DR. PAUL CRET

Dr. Paul Cret, who served five years with the French army and the A. E. F. in the World War, soon leaves Philadelphia, his present home, for France to select the various sites and prepare the designs for the American war memorials which are to dot France at points of interest of the late conflict.
This is in preparation for the 1927 visit of the American Legion. The memorials are being built under congressional authority by the American battle monuments commission, of which Gen. John J. Pershing is chairman. Doctor Cret was born in Lyons and received his architectural education in France.

Don't Let 'Em "Gyp" You

Doesn't it cost you enough to operate your car as it is without letting "gyp" tire and accessory dealers lure you into their trap?
When we sell you TIRES or TUBES we are not selling "seconds." Every one carries a mileage guarantee—and we are here to make good if the tires don't. If you buy from the cheap mail-order tire and accessory dealers you have to put up with what they send you.

YOU WOULDN'T BE SATISFIED WITH "SECONDS" IN SUGAR OR MEAT.
WHY NOT BE AS PARTICULAR ABOUT THE MONEY YOU SPEND ON TIRES?

We'll Save You Money on anything that goes on your auto—and we can save you money on repairs. We've a line of the BEST tires and accessories—the kind that are cheapest in the long run because they are BEST in the first-place.
Don't tinker with your car and do something that will make a bigger bill later on—let an expert look after it and save both the life of the car and your money
