L. A. Petersen caught a bear in a trap Wednesday morning. He sold it to the Vernonia butchers. He says that if he had been a little later the bear would have been out as it had eaten part of its leg off and all that was holding it in the trap was just a small piece of flesh.

NOTICE

There are a number of young folks in the habit of staying out after the curfew has been sounded and this practice has got to be stopped.

You have plenty of time to get to the 1st show at night and get home a little after 9 o'clock as the law requires.

In the future this law will be strictly enforced and if you are out after curfew hours you must be accompanied by your parents or guardian, and a guardian don't mean your beaux at that.

Remember this as there will be no more telling you to get home.

W. J. KELLY, City Marshal.

A CHRISTMAS SUGGESTION

Better please the whole family as well as yourself. We know how they would appreciate the best and longest distance radio—and how all evenings would be spent at home—Ask my customers they different stations they are getting and how distant and clear. The famous one and a half watt—latest out. We install after something in the air and night. See me. A. L. Fennc

Bertha Brown returned last week says that Vernonia is good enough after an extended visit east and for her.

W. C. T. U. CONVENTION

The W. C. T. U. held their 43rd annual convention at Hood River, Oct. 20, 21, 22 and 23, with a large attendance of delegates about every was represented. On Tuesday evening the Hood River union furnished an elaborate banquet. There were 175 plates served. On Wednesday the Hood River apple growers association furnished the convention attendants with several boxes of Hood River apples, which was very much appreciated. On Thursday the good people of that city furnished cars and took the delegates out to see the valley and orchards and around by Billy Sunday's farm home which was a treat to most of us.

Many good speakers were listened to. Gov. Pierce, the man who has the work at heart, spoke Thursday evening on the crime wave, disrespected for the law and moving pictures, he said, was the cause of so many crimes. The moving pictures teach them just how to commit them, and booze promotes them on. C. T. Webb superintendent of the Children's Farm Home at Corvallis, gave an address and said that was one of the greatest things the W. C. T. U. had done in Oregon, by furnishing a home for the homeless children over the state. Daddy and mamma Webb seem to have their whole heart and life in their work of caring for the many dependant children who seem to be so happy in their new home.

City Marshal Kelly has had several violators of the curfew law before Judge Reasoner this week and says he intends to see that there will be a whole lot more if they do not obey the curfew law.

November 26 will be Thanksgiving Day, so designated by President Coolidge in his proclamation given out this week. We have plenty to be thankful for.
