

MOVIE NEWS AND COMMENT OF LOCAL FEATURES

We are pleased to hear of so many readers keeping track of our "movie column" each week, as that is why we go to the trouble to look up the programs and broadcast the According to the advance sheets, we believe it is, on the whole, the best week of shows ever put on at our local theatre.

For this Saturday night we notice two of our favorites, Monte Blue and Patsy Ruth Miller. They appear in "Red Hot Tires," and as the title suggests it is full of pep, thrills, fun and excitement. Auto racing, speed cops galore, rich in comeys and Patsy gets in some of her best acting at various scenes.

For Sunday night is a picture of tragedy, romance and drama. It is "The Street of Forgotten Men." A romance of New York's underworld and the strange story of a beggar and tramp who lost himself for love. If there's ever to be another "Miracle Man" this is it. "The Street of Forgotten Men," produced by Herbert Brenon, who made "Peter Pan" from George Kibbe Turner's Liberty magazine story, deals with a class of people who are half crooks, half objects of pity, and their strange life, never before revealed. Percy Marmont, Neil Hamilton and Mary Brian ("The Little French Girl") are featured in the principal roles of the production, which was adopted for the screen by Paul Scofield. The million readers of Liberty hailed this story a masterpiece.

For next Monday night, Mr. Bush is going to please the lovers of real fast Western pictures. You will see Jesse Sedgwick, the Girl Cowboy, in one of the fastest action western pictures produced. It is wild, outdoor life, cow picture, ranch life and west ern love. You will like it if the old west will interest you.

On next Tuesday and Wednesday is the "Limited Mail." Here is a picture known as a record breaker, you will say better than "The Iron Horse." A breath taking drama of the great outdoors. An epic of huge steel monsters that rush headlong over shining tracks! The havoc and destruction that follow in the wake of a train wreck! And, through it all, the fascinating tale of a virile, courageous boy who forsook his false superficiality of the East, and fought the rugged, noble mountains of Colorado to win his manhood—winning also the deep happiness of love.

On next Thursday and Friday you will be privileged to see the greatest Swanson picture ever made. Gloria Swanson in "The Coast of Folly" Gorgeous Gloria in a 1925 society love story of Palm Beach. Gowns, luxury, comedy, class, drama, romance—Gloria a hundred times more glorious than you've ever seen her. Produced by the man who made manhood! The mere fact that Allen Dwan, director of three of Gloria Swanson's biggest successes, "Man-handled," "Her Love Story" and "Wages of Virtue," directed "The Coast of Folly" guarantees it a place ranking with that trio of box-office productions. "The Coast of Folly" adapted for the screen by James Creelman from the novel by Coningsby Dawson, is a modern love drama of the highest type, the story revolving around the plight of a beautiful society girl who becomes entangled in a love triangle. Here's a picture that gives great contrast to "Madame Sans Gene" in atmosphere and costume—an up-to-the-minute society drama with an American background.—Palm Beach to be exact.

TO CROSS REINDEER WITH CARIBOU

Since the introduction of reindeer into Alaska the breeding of these animals has revolutionized the economic status of the natives and opened a very promising field for a new industry which is being developed by white citizens. There are now estimated to be about 300,000 head of reindeer in Alaska. This animal is somewhat smaller than the wild woodland caribou and it is intended by the United States government to experiment with crossing these animals in the expectation of increasing the size of the former. The reindeer is merely a domesticated old world caribou and interbreeding is common where opportunity is afforded.

The United States government is fostering the reindeer industry as much as possible, recognizing its importance in the development of Alaska.

The market for reindeer meat in the United States and elsewhere is rapidly developing the chief difficulty in supplying the market now being concerned with transportation problems. The food of the reindeer herds which are now found chiefly on the coast, consists largely of lichens or reindeer moss, which is the main food of the animals in winter. This is a very slow growing plant, and as it is fed off by the herds new areas must be used.

Experiments are to be made in an effort to find substitute foods. The cross-breeding experiments are to be conducted on Nunivak Island, near the mouth of the Yukon river. —Sportsman's Digest.

The Oregon state library, in Salem has a reading list of books pertaining upon the above named subject, which will be sent to any Oregon student on request. Books pertaining to the subject are obtainable in most Oregon public libraries. Oregon has a system of local libraries, supplemented in many cases by county library systems, and in all cases by the Oregon state library. Students desiring such books should apply first to the local library, which, if not having the books, should secure them from the county or state libraries. If the local library cannot give this service, which is usual, or if there is no local library, the student should write directly to the Oregon state library in Salem, which makes loans of books free of charge, except postage, to all citizens of Oregon. In writing to the Oregon state library students should state the information desired and, not merely confine requests to some particular book or books sought, thereby enabling the state library to substitute other material in case any book requested is not available.
