MOVIE NEWS AND COMMENT OF LOCAL FEATURES

The season of parties, entertainments, receptions, concerts, etc., being over for awhile, Mr. Bush has prepared a good program for every night this coming week, beginning Saturday. They are pictures extensively advertised and look like big runs all.

For this Saturday night will be "The Reckless Lady." Life and men Sylvia Fleming played against them and saw them, and around the batz tables of Monte Carlo she was called The Reckless Lady. Reckless? She was a mother whose first gamble and loss was love. Then for fifteen years she gambled for money that kept

A "Correct" Likeness of Washington

This heroic statue of the commander-in-chief of the first armies of the United States was made for the city of Portland, Oregon, though not yet delivered there by the artist. The western municipality has loaned it to the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition, opening in Philadelphia June 1 and continuing until December 1, to celebrate 150 years of American independence. At the foot of the sculpture is shown Pompeo Coppini, the sculptor. Dr. Henry Waldo Poe, of Portland, declares the face to be the most correct likeness of Washington ever modeled.

her child; and when the man who had admired her loved her daughter instead, the Reckless Lady made her last great gamble against the fate that enmeshed the girl. And at Fate she cried "I'll see you!" Where but Monte Carlo could such a tale be set

For this Sunday night the big success "My Old Dutch." A lesson in love for young and old. A quaint, romantic comedy-drama of the picturesque London Coster built on the sound philosophy that life is what you make it. Screamingly funny, pathetically tender, whimsical, delightful! A thoroughly human slice of life that will touch a responsive chord in every heart.

On next Monday night his devotees will be pleased to learn that it will be a Harry Carey picture, "The Man from Red Gulch." A romantic thrilling story of gold rush days in the Sierras, an epic of the golden west when the weak were forced to the wall and brave men won riches and sometimes love. A dramatic picturization of Bret Harte's immortal story, "The Idyl of Red Gulch" a wonder picture of California in the making, a photoplay of historic interest, a theme of tremendous force and appeal.

Next Tuesday and Wednesday nights are both big nights. Then you will see the wonder picture: "The Shamrock Handicap." A drama of Pathos and Irish wit about a heroic Irish jockey and a famous Irish steeplechaser on an American track.

On next Thursday and Friday nights will be shown Hoot Gibson in "The Phantom Bullet." A stirring tale of a cowpuncher detective who tracks down a slayer in a relentless and altogether unusual manner. With genuine comedy situations, sales of merriment and blood-thrilling thrills. Directed by Clifford Smith who gave you the "Man on the Saddle" and other Gibson successes.

THERE'S SOMETHING IN BEING OLD-FASHIONED

Fred Marvin, of the New York Commercial, speaking of radical activities, says:

"They inject the poison of liberalism into the government and it is like injecting the poison into the body of an individual. You are seeing this poison at work in an entirely different way. These forces have grasped and almost control all higher education. Take economies for instance. Formerly we read Ricardo, Hamilton, Mills. Smith, the sound theories upon which this country was built. You do not find them in your schools and colleges today, but you do find theories of economy built on the theories of Karl Marx, Engel, even Lenin.

"Take your histories! I was thrilled, as a boy, to read and learn about the deeds of valor of our heroes who did so much in the building of this country. You do not find them in the histories of today, for they are not represented as heroes. This is not all—for they are seeking to rewrite and rewrite your text books from the viewpoint of class struggle. The science of sociology is now taught from this viewpoint. Well might it be called the science of mythology. It is based wholly on the socialistic theory. In the prefaces of the books in many cases it is even stated that the theory is based on the theories of Marx, Engel, etc., even Lenin and Trotzky.

"Read the daily papers and see how many boys and girls are taking their part in the crime wave. It is not a question of politics, not religion nor as a controversy between capital and labor, but a question of Americanism. We have altogether too many foreignized Americans in this country today. We can well understand why the foreigner who has just come to our shores does not grasp what we have. I cannot understand why any American takes stand against this government. It is time that this sort of thing was changed, and it is up to you! Knowledge is necessary for understanding.

"But when a man is tempted to speak out he is subject to pretty rough treatment, and I speak from experience. He is reactionary; he is old-fashioned. Thank God, I am old-fashioned. And I am opposed to the new social system. Nobody has devised anything to take the place of the old-fashioned ideals and until some one does devise something to take their place, we should stick to them."

MRS. DORA THROOP

Mrs. Dora Throop, formerly a resident here in the earlier days, died at Yakima, Wash., last Sunday, so we are informed today. The funeral was held in Vernonia yesterday. Mrs. Throop was the mother of Thomas Throop of this place and of Mrs. C. C. Mills.

RIVERVIEW NOTES

Mrs. W. V. Kirkland has returned to her home in Portland after a two weeks visit with her mother, Mrs. Clara Smyth.

Mrs. Clara Smyth has added a new Burroughs adding machine to her store, the Home grocery.

Monday, May 24th being Mrs. Clara Smyth's birthday, she was presented with a fine birthday cake. Compliments of the Vernonia bakery which she appreciated very much.

There isn't a song on the driver's line as the caissons roll today. There isn't the jest of the roaring ranks as the columns swing their way;

The old home street is a sunny street and far from the wrath of war, But a flag leads on where he followed once—the man who will march no more.

The blue of the fleet that swept the seas, the brown of the wild Argonne; The men of musket and Mauser days come shoulder to shoulder on.

The caissons roll and the columns swing in the old "One, two, three four";

'And the ranks close in where the files are blank—the men who march no more);

The poppies bloom in the fields of France, and the North sea waves are gray;

The larks are singing in Normandy, and Morro is years away; The grass is green where the crosses stand and the sky bends smiling o'er—

Should the world forget, your comrades won't, you men who will march no more. —William F. McGurk in Kansas City Star.

Neither horses nor sheep will eat the "horse sorrel" or "sheep sorrel" that grows on thousands of acres of acid land that lime would remedy.

Headlights and tail lights on baby carriages are necessary in Milwaukee, according to the literal interpretation of city ordinances of that city. The Bakarganj cyclone of 1876 from the Bay of Bengal brought so much rain that the loss of life from drowning was 100,000 in six hours.

Napoleon traveled from near Vilna to Paris in 312 hours. An ordinary traveler could not have done this distance in twice the time. Railways have reduced the journey to less than 48 hours. Local anti-barberry laws were passed in France as early as 1660. The common barberry was completely eradicated from Denmark in 1903, since which time no black stem rust in wheat has been noticed there.

In remote rural districts in Norway the bride dons the native dress of her district and rides to the church ceremony on a pony.

Walking is not a "lost art" in Berlin, for hundreds of thousands of pedestrians fill the parks and boulevards on pleasant evenings and Sundays.

The Chinese do not bury their Louis XVI was fastidious in some things but not all. Disliking the prevailing style of oblong handkerchiefs he issued a decree ordering manufacturers to make them square and square they have remained.

The word brain occurs for the first time in the Smith Papyrus of the seventeenth century B. C. This papyrus gives the most important medical knowledge we have from ancient times.

Carved stones sometimes fall to the earth from the sky. In 1910 a stone cylinder fell at Westerville, Ohio.

There are over fifty English names for that lighting phenomenon commonly called "will-o'-the-wisp."

By Dan Zelm

LEAVE IT 2 BUDDY

NOW, DEAREST, I WANT YOU TO PROMISE NOT TO WORK ANY MORE ON THAT SWEATER FOR BUDDY— YOU'LL GET ALL TIRED OUT

WELL, ALL RIGHT THEN

I SIMPLY MUST WORK ON BUDDY'S SWEATER— EVEN IF I DID TELL DADDY I WOULDN'T

NOW IF DADDY COMES HOME YOU LET ME KNOW SO I CAN HIDE YOUR SWEATER

ALL RIGHT— I'LL WATCH FOR HIM

WAIT, DADDY, TILL MOMMY HIDES IT!
