night lunch of ice cream and cake served. Business session was resumed and finished by a resolution of thanks and appreciation from Pomona to Natal grange for their grange No. 305, November 5, 1927. bountiful hospitality and entertainment. Grange was closed in due form and we all felt that the 96th session was one that fully repaid us for our trip. The next Pomona motor vehicle license fee could be meeting will be with Vernonia reduced one half, without interfering with road building program, and whereas a two cent increase in the gasoline tax will take care of the maturing bonds. Therefore the Columbia county Pomona grange goes on record as favoring the reduction of the motor vehicle license tax one-half and increasing the tax on gasoline two cents. And further resolved that a copy of this resolution be sent to the county papers and to the Oregon State Highway Commission.

Committee: Maud J. Mills, A. H. Tarbell, F. J. Peterson.

Whereas: The breaking of the 13th amendment leans to the disregard of all laws, and brings in an undesirable class of citizens, an whereas the arrest and conviction of all law breakers leads to better economic and moral conditions. Therefore we commend the cities of St. Helens and Rainier for the fine start they have made in enforcing the laws, which if carried out by all of our communities would make Columbia county attractive to the best class of citizens and further resolved that a copy of this resolution be sent to each of the county papers.

Submitted by the legislative committee of Deer Island Grange.

The Majestic

Gary Cooper, Paramount's new star in western productions, easily qualifies as filmdom's tallest screen luminary, registered a height of six feet, two inches, without his ten-gallon hat. In "Arizona Bound," his first starring vehicle, which comes to the Majestic theatre on Saturday. Cooper makes his debut in a fast-moving tale of a frontier town, and appears as a reckless hardriding cowboy who fights against the suspicion of the townspeople, the intrigues of two warring bands of ruffians, and the frowning disapproval of the prettiest girl in the village. Betty Jewel and El Brendel are featured.

Paul Bern, one of the few men in Hollywood who is in demand both as a scenario writer and a director, was the adapter of "Three Hours," the Corinne Griffith picture at the Majestic theatre Sunday. His screen play is based on May Edginton's powerful story of mother love and sacrifice of the same title.

One of the greatest bucking horse scenes ever filmed was caught for "Range Courage," the Universal Western, starring Fred Humes which comes to the Majestic theatre here Monday. The bucking horse escapade is only one of the many thrilling scenes however, for there is everything from an honest to goad prize fight to landing in a bed of cactus from atop a bronc in this mile-a-minute western showing Fred Humes at his best. There's a well chosen cast consisting of Gloria Grey in the feminine lead and such old troupers as Bill Steele, Monte Montague, Robert Homan and Arthur Millet.

"The Unknown," Lon Chaney's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle at the Majestic theatre Tuesday and Wednesday, was like "Old Home Week" to him, for in the cast of the new mystery story were many who played with him four years ago in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame." These include Norman Kerry, since raised to stellar honors, Nick de Ruiz, who played the executioner, John George, Frank Lanning and several others among the extras. Chaney plays a strange armless sideshow freak in a sinister plot in the new picture, with Joan Crawford as the heroine, and Kerry in the romantic lead. It is an original story by Tod Browning, creator of "The Unholy Three" and "The Road to Mandalay," directed by himself.

Most exotic and mysterious of the ladies of the screen is Myrna Loy who plays Maria Blanco, a passionate Sicilian who seethes with hatred for the death of her father, and seeks to avenge his death by torture of the man whom she woos, marries, and in the end after perils by land and sea, but see her with Monte Blue in "Bruder Apples." Thursday and Friday.
