When we started in the bakery business in Vernonia in May, 1924, we decided before ever we made our first batch of goods that we would adhere strictly to quality products. We have never once deviated from that policy and we never will. You can depend upon it that no matter what you buy from the Vernonia Bakery, whether it be a cookie or wedding cake, only quality ingredients have been used in its making and this means that we spend much more money for raw materials than we would have to spend were we inclined to side-step the "quality" idea. On this policy of quality, plus cleanliness and service, we bid for your patronage.—adv.

Card of Thanks.

I wish to express sincere thanks to the many neighbors and friends whose kindly help and sympathy during the illness and death of my mother-in-law, Mrs. E. A. Alford, was so graciously extended; also for the many floral tributes. Laverit Goodin and Children.

FARM MARKET REVIEW

Oregon Agricultural College Extension Service.

Grain.—Light frost in Canada and reports of further rust damage on both sides of the boundary caused sharp advances in the wheat market last week. Official estimates as of August 1 indicate less winter wheat but more spring wheat in the United States and more spring wheat in Canada than estimated a month earlier. The Canadian crop is late, however, and there is still danger of damage from rust. Strong premiums for protein continue to be paid. Export demand on the Pacific Coast improved. There were no important changes in the European wheat situation. A smaller crop of barley than last year is expected in Europe and Japan and the California crop is short, but for the United States the production of barley this year is estimated to exceed 1926 by 1,200,000 tons. Markets held steady last week with prices materially above a year ago which reflects high prices for corn.

Feed.—More firmness has been noted in feed markets owing to the firm prices for grain.

Livestock.—Firm prices for well finished cattle and improved demand for good feeders but some weakness in poorly finished killers marked the cattle markets last week. Good fat lambs and choice feeders were steady generally and up a little at some eastern points, but in-between kinds were scarcely steady with receipts increasing. Hogs were up at San Francisco but steady to lower points with receipts nominal.

Wool.—Some slackening in demand was noted at Boston, but on the whole the situation continued firm last week. Mills are being advised to buy for needs during the next few months at present prices. Advisors point to a firm foreign market coupled with small stocks of imported wool in this country and an improved demand for goods.

CACTUS FLAT CATAMOUNT

ment that he will not run again has been interpreted to mean that he does not want a third term, that he has no intention of running under any circumstances, that considerable pressure must be brought to bear by his cabinet to induce him to run, and that he doesn't expect to announce his candidacy until later on anyway.

Hick Hayes, who was in the flying corps in the late war, saw an airplane for the first time the other day.

Word and Style Book To Be Published Soon

Publication of the Oregon State Editorial association word and style book, prepared by a committee representing the four classes of Oregon newspapers, was authorized by the association at its annual convention in Roseburg and Bandon August 6. The members of the committee are C. J. McIntosh of the committee on better English for the Inland Empire Educational association, chairman; Earl C. Brownlee, editor of the Forest Grove Washington County News-Times; R. G. Swensen, editor Monmouth Herald; H. C. Thomas, city editor of the Oregonian; and R. R. Cronise, manager of the Albany Democrat-Herald and president of the Oregon Newspaper conference.

The typographic style of the majority of leading Oregon newspapers as determined in an extended study of all newspapers published in the state is the basis of style recommendations. Right and wrong word use and sentence structure are illustrated from 1800 clippings taken in a survey of the Oregon press.

Another section of the little desk book carries a collection of the most objectionable journalistic words phrases as submitted by Oregon editors. These "pet aversions" are published without signature or comment, although a good many of them are treated under their proper headings in the text.

The aim of the book is to eliminate some typographic and grammatical errors and to standardize the best of two or more correct typographic styles for the production of better newspapers at less cost of time and money.

A bridal shower was given in honor of Miss Wilma Jones Monday night at the home of Mrs. J. E. Adams. It is understood that the marriage of Miss Jones and Roscoe Babb will occur in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Thompson returned the first of this week from a trip to Vancouver, B. C. Mr. Thompson stated that the majority of automobiles seen on the streets of Vancouver, which was not many, bore United States license plates.
