are slowly taking place, it is a foregone conclusion that the Pacific International this year will live up to its motto—"Bigger and Better."

This great livestock university of this Pacific slope country has become a part of agriculture in its very best sense and has rooted deep in the hearts of the people of this great western empire, with the result that each year shows a slowly increasing attendance and a better understanding of its value to this great country.

Many people are availing themselves of this week as one of vacation and are coming from all parts of the Pacific slope territory, as well as from the far east. It is truly international in its character as exhibits from across the border, year after year, indicate. Newspaper men from all parts of the territory are making more and more an effort to attend the show and report it in their community upon their return home.

Railroads everywhere are making a rate of a fare and a third for the round trip and exhibit stock is handled free one way. Early inquiries should be made of railroad agents in your home town to get particulars of selling dates and other pertinent information.

For the fifth consecutive year, the widely known Pacific International Livestock special will leave Chicago the morning of October 23, being routed west this year over the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway. It will arrive in Portland probably Thursday, October 27 in plenty of time for the opening of the exposition. Chances are there will be about twenty cars of the best livestock of the United States, and on the train, which runs as a passenger special, will be a diner, pullman, private car of the railroad executives and a coach. The train usually stops four or five times during the trip west for demonstration purposes, the livestock being taken off the train where it is viewed by thousands of people who come from miles around to have this opportunity which happens only once a year.

At the conclusion of the Pacific International, the train returns east over the Union Pacific. This year will leave here Sunday noon, Nov. 6, arriving at the American Royal livestock show at Kansas City, Thursday or Friday, November 11, making in mileage one of the biggest circuits, by far, ever traveled by any livestock train.

As usual, judges of national reputation have been secured from all parts of the nation to place the ribbons on the different classes of livestock. These names will be furnished a little bit later in a separate letter.

department. In addition to the letters being received from those who have been in touch with the department for as long as two and three years, a steady stream of new inquiries call for information and literature about Oregon farm opportunities. During the first half of August 577 letters have been received by the department. Many of these come as direct results of railroad advertising while a larger number are sent by those whose friends and former neighbors have already availed themselves of the services of the and settlement organization and settled in Oregon.

Signed questionnaires have been furnished by 46 inquirers since the first of August, of whom 36 definitely said they were making arrangements to come to Oregon. They anticipate making investments here which will approximate $74,000. A close check is kept on the records of those who thus designate their intention to come to Oregon and follow up letters are sent them from time to time. In this way it has been ascertained that a very large percentage of those using the department's service in obtaining information take advantage of the opportunities offered and establish themselves in the state, usually within a year after their decision to come.

In answering new inquiries and furnishing information to those who contemplate coming to Oregon as farm settlers, the land settlement department sent out 2026 letters during the first two weeks of August, with 479 packages of illustrated literature describing agriculture in Oregon.
