Potato Certification Gaining Popularity

time to prevent the spread of the disease this year.

"The larger number of fields planted to the better seed is going to show in the increased yield per acre this year," says Professor Hyslop. "More fields with productive rather than diseased plants will make more saleable potatoes.

"There has been some misrepresentation of certified seed on the part of some anxious to sell their poor stock at the certified price. One lot growing this year from seed that was misrepresented had more than 50 per cent disease. To sell uncertified seed as certified or to sell certified seed without tags is a violation of the law and punishable by fine and imprisonment."

The destructive disease, blackleg, is usually common this year. It causes a dwarfing of the plants and a yellowing of the leaves. The standard corrosive sublimate treatment has been found to be the most effective in controlling blackleg and is recommended for both certified seed fields and common seed fields.

Small seed pieces are not so good as large ones. Whole seed is usually better than cut seed especially for early planting, believes Professor Hyslop. Eight inch deep in warm or cold soil is too deep and three inches deep in hot dry soil or in unirrigated sections is too shallow. Even with irrigation where the rows are ridged up four to five inches is better.

WHITE ELEPHANT COMING WITH CIRCUS

Sacred Animal Making Only American Tour with Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Shows

Hailed as the "greatest feature of all time," Pawah, the world-famed sacred white elephant of Burma is to be presented in the menagerie of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Combined Shows when the big circus exhibits at Portland Friday, August 26.

Pawah is the first of his kind to be found in more than three hundred years and the only elephant ever brought to America. He is accompanied by his supreme keeper, Dr. S. D. Po Min, and attended by a retinue of fourteen native Burmese. The present is Pawah's only season in America, the Ringling Brothers being under bond to return him to Burma at the close of the tour.

Pawah is of those rare elephants that the Buddhists of today and centuries past have worshipped in belief that in their huge bulk reposes the soul of Buddha. And certainly he is as different from those elephants with which the public is familiar as day is from night. His eyes are milk white, set with sparkling pupils. His skin is soft and pliable. His body is white as a "white man" is white. To quote the French authority, M. Dussard, he is "as gentle as a kitten and as beautiful as a Greek statue."

government and in the face of threats from the Buddhist priests who protested that his departure from Burma would bring dire calamities. More than two million people saw Pawah when he was presented under the auspices of the London Zoological Society. The bringing of the white elephant to America is in furtherance of the Ringling policy of this season's circus introduces five rings in place of the usual three. The Big Show's personnel numbers more than sixteen hundred people, and nine hundred horses. A hundred double-length railway cars are required to transport its ten thousand marvels, plus a special Pullman for Pawah and his attendants.
