"Grange Day" Observed
Grange day was observed Saturday by members of Natal grange when they rebuilt fences, shingled the roof of the grange hall, and cleaned the inside of the building.

At 12 o'clock the women who were present had a chicken dinner for the workers.

It is a tense melodrama of desert loves and hates but the piece is lightened by the uproarious slapstick of the soldiers.

"Hands Off"
If you like your movie fare spiced with thrills, romance, action and nerve-gripping drama, there's a cinema treat in store for you at the Majestic theatre Monday where Fred Humes will grace the screen as the star of Hands Off, a Universal western. Helen Foster plays the sweetheart opposite Humes in appealing style, and you'll like her screen personality, her beauty and her ability as an actress.

"Man Power"
Christmas Eve. Up in the hills, a huge dam is about to collapse to let its torrents of water down on a town in the valley. Rain falls. Lightning flashes brighten the surrounding country with ominous omens. All is peaceful below. Only sand bags can fill the breach and save the thousands below! What happens? See Richard Dix' new Paramount thriller "Man Power" at the Majestic theatre Tuesday and Wednesday and find out.

"Men of Daring"
A heart-stirring drama of the western conquest told with a startling vividness that will enable you to actually live those stormy days, at the Majestic theatre Thursday and Friday.

Farm Reminders
Sprays on perennial weeds in Oregon are being tried out more extensively than ever this year. There have been a few cases of fairly deep kills but for the most part the various treatments have proved quite expensive, experiment station men have found.

Hungarian vetch is the best of the vetches for forage in Oregon where the soil is cold and wet, or where there is danger of freezing injury, the experiment station advises. It is usually sowed at 60 to 80 pounds an acre with about 40 pounds of winter oats.
