Read this! It should be interesting to everyone who eats bread. We recently sent a loaf of Mother's bread for scoring to the Baker's helper of Chicago, Ill., which is a powerful and influential publication of the baking industry. Here is an excerpt from their letter, word for word: "The loaf is a real loaf and it is a pleasure to congratulate your having produced such a fine loaf. It conforms and should have a first grading in exterior as well as interior scoring. The loaf is of good appearance and volume, crust of nice brown color and consistency, evenly baked, top, sides and bottom. The crust is perfect in texture, of a fine creamy color which looks whiter and finer because of the fine porosity of the cells. All we can say is that it is very difficult to advise any betterments. Flavor, taste and keeping qualities are very good." In that paragraph written by one thousands of miles away and who is entirely impartial, you have the story of the goodness of Mother's bread. Use it always and know you have the best bread that can be had.—adv.
