lowed by a recitation by Dorothy June Wolfe. The Rebekah "Kitchen Band" played several numbers, and Mrs. Sarah Spencer delighted the audience with a comic song and recitation. Sidney Malmsten gave a very interesting reading on "How Lindbergh did it."

A male quartette was followed by the main event of the evening which was a debate, "Resolved that Andy Gump is a greater hero than Lindbergh." Mrs. Judd Greenman and Mr. Wolfe upheld the affirmative and Charles Malmsten and Rev. Plumer pleaded the negative. The decision was given to the Lindbergh side. After a recitation by Betty Cameron and music by the kitchen band, refreshments were served by the members. Each person was then carefully measured and required to pay one cent for each inch of waist measurement.

Rose Theatre

"A Hero For a Night"

The airplane used in the filming of the Universal farce comedy "A Hero for a Night," which will be the feature attraction at the Rose theatre on Saturday caught fire in the air and was completely destroyed while the cameras were grinding on the last sequence of the picture. As the plane was supposed to have been demolished in the picture, the fire scenes were incorporated in the story to give it a more thrilling climax.

"Very Confidential"

Comedy-drama augmented by legitimate thrills of the hair-raising variety, has been used to excellent advantage by James Tinling in directing Madge Bellamy in "Very Confidential," a Fox film production which shows at the Rose theatre Sunday.

"If I Were Single"

The happy combination of Miss McAvoy and Nagel as co-stars in "If I Were Single" indicates beyond a doubt that the success of this pair in "Slightly Used" was well earned. As man and wife in this latest picture they again carry their roles with remarkable ability and show conclusively that their resourcefulness comprehends both comedy and serious drama. This picture will be shown at the Rose theatre Monday.

"The Gateway of the Moon"

"The Gateway of the Moon," the thrilling story of the adventures of a young mining engineer in the fastnesses of South America, produced for Fox Films under the direction of John Griffith Wray, comes to the Rose theatre Tuesday and Wednesday.

"The Lady in Ermine"

Corinne Griffith in "The Lady in Ermine," coming to the Rose next Thursday and Friday, plays an Italian countess of the early nineteenth century who becomes a bride on the eve of her husband's departure to war, later to find herself enmeshed in intrigue and villainy when the Austrians take the town in which she is living.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

(Christian)
Splendid interest is being shown by the townspeople in the revival meeting now being conducted by Dr. R. L. Dunn. Every night (except Monday) Evangelist Dunn brings inspiring and helpful gospel messages from the book. Almost every night there have been responses to the invitation and many have been added to the church. Following are some of the interesting subjects that will be discussed.

Thursday "God's Great Reforms or Water." Friday "On the Lord's Side." Saturday "Man's Indebtedness to God." Sunday: Bible school at 10:00. Be one of 200 next Sunday.
