MARK E. MOE, Editor

THE TURKEY GOBBLER

At this time of the year, the great American bird is not the hen or the eagle, but the turkey gobbler. He is truly king of the barnyard. Se him strut in the fullness of his pride, tail feathers spreading, head up, wings trailing, but not ingloriously! His crimson comb and purplish wattles give him the appearance of a red-faced and important gentleman who is querulously concerned with all that is going on about him. Such pomposity, dignity and swagger is rare. His irritable "gobble, gobble, gobble" arouses fright in the hearts of little children, but is music in the ears of the more sophisticated who envision him trussed up in a roaster and stewing in his own sweet juice.

The turkey has been closely associated with American history from the beginning, when the famous Thanksgiving feast of the Pilgrim fathers in November, 1621, in which the friendly Indians participated, wild turkey was the chief delicacy. The wild turkey was once plentiful, but only exists now in a few sections of the country. No one wants to see the day when the turkey has disappeared from the land and the proud gobbler struts and fumes no more.

K. A. McNeill is to be highly complimented on his foresight in moving his pharmacy to a new and larger location, where he can better serve his patrons and be in a position to enlarge his business. Before many more months there will be increased activity in this town and those merchants who are prepared for it will reap the benefits. Those who do not will be helping the others that much more.

Pack Eggs Small End Down
Eggs shipped to market should always be packed in the fillers small end down, as they carry better in transit and storage when in this position.

Silage Good Feed For Sheep
Silage or roots furnish a good, inexpensive feed for sheep at times of the year when pasture is not available. These feeds are especially valuable for keeping ewes in good condition during the winter.

New Leaflet Issued
"The Farm Woods—A savings bank Paying Interest" is the title of a new eight-page leaflet issued by the U. S. department of agriculture. This publication may be secured from the department in Washington by writing for leaflet No. 29-L.

Bees Do Not Hibernates
Bees do not hibernates in the winter as do other insects and therefore they must be protected from cold. In protecting bees from cold in winter, the hives may be packed in chaff, leaves, or similar dry material. Hives made with double walls, the space between which is filled with insulation material, are good for outdoor wintering. With proper protection, the moisture given off by bees in winter does not condense within the hive. This, if not prevented, would cause a great deal of damage.

Cows Freshen Best In Fall
Fall is the most advantageous time for the cow to freshen, winter the next best season, and spring and summer the least advantageous, according to dairy specialists of the U. S. department of agriculture. Cows that freshen in the fall rank highest, on an average, in yearly production of milk and butterfat and in income over cost of feed; and those freshening in spring or summer produce the least milk and butterfat and return the smallest income over cost of feed.

Good For Fertilizer
Do not throw away commercial feed stuffs that have spoiled; if they become moldy or otherwise unfit for feed, apply them to the soil. All commercial feeds make good fertilizers, and those rich in nitrogen, such as cottonseed meal, bran, and beef scraps, are especially valuable.

High Grade Alfalfa
Rain and snow do not improve the quality of alfalfa hay. Considerable losses in the quality of alfalfa alfalfa from weathering, stack spot, or shattered leaves, which occur in regions where the practice is to stack alfalfa and leave it exposed to the weather, could be avoided if it were baled at a favorable time and stored in sheds or warehouses until shipped, says the U. S. department of agriculture.

Far Tan
Sometimes, for one reason or another, conditions are such that the occasional producer of one or two hides or skins can not market them at a profit. Under such conditions the hide or skin is likely to be a complete loss both to the producer as so much raw material and to the country as its equivalent in leather and leather goods. This loss can often be prevented by tanning the hide or skin on the farm. The leather product will not be as attractive as commercially tanned leather but will be serviceable and satisfactory for many jobs on the farm. Detailed directions for the home tanning of leather and small fur skins are given in Farmers' Bulletin 1334-F, a copy of which can be had free upon request to the U. S. department of agriculture.

"Inside" Information
Lemon and olive oil may be used to season spinach. Pass sections of the lemon as you would with fish, and a cruet of oil.

Take the guesswork out of roasting beef by using a meat thermometer thrust into the thickest part of the meat. When the thermometer registers between 130 and 150 degrees the meat will be rare, medium between 150 and 170 and well done at about 180 degrees.

Louise Parazzi, president of Rebekah Assembly of Oregon, paid Mountain Heart Rebekah lodge an official visit November 7. Leona Thiel, warden, accompanied her. A chicken dinner was served at the Evangelical church. In the afternoon degree work was put on. A short branch containing nine ripe and more than that number of green raspberries was picked by Roy Smith from a bush in his yard last week.

Judge Fines Local Men
The following were fined in Judge Reasoner's court Tuesday of last week: Roy Carroll $30 for being intoxicated at a public dance, H. J. Buffmire $20 for disorderly conduct at a public dance, Gordon Allen $50 for interfering with an officer in the performance of his duties, Al Wharton $15 for assault to the person of Albert Wood.

Given Fine and Jail Sentence
Frank Nishinura, Japanese, who was arrested and charged with driving while drunk, was fined $200 by Judge P. Hill November 8 and sentenced to 60 days in the county jail and his driver's license revoked for the period of one year. Judge Hill stated that he would recommend to the secretary of state that his license be revoked permanently.

Seasoned Fence Posts Best
Well seasoned fence posts will absorb more preservative than green wood; thereby lengthening the life of the posts.
