

The Feathered "Who"

(By Lee Schwab)

Those who before election were complaining about too much Hooverizing during the war, and let this influence their recent vote, will soon be idealizing he who made them Hooverize.

"Why is pancake like the sun?" "Dot's easy," answered the Swede." It rises out of der yeast and sets behind the veat.

Aimee McPherson, who recently returned from abroad, stated that Paris night life was tame compared to night life in some of our large American cities. Those who served in the A.E.F. have their own idea about this, but then Aimee had to have a good alibi for taking in the foreign sights.

During this radio craze, those talented, go on the air. Long before the radio, we were given the air by some fair dame but are now unable to use it.

Albert Childs—"Hixson, give me a sentence using the word diadem." Hixson—"People who drive onto the railroad crossing diadem sight quicker than those who stop, look and listen."

Popular pastime of the folks living beyond their means—Going into bankruptcy.

Illusion-Going shopping in a large department store expecting to pick up bargains, after a few hundred similar bargain hunters have fingered the wares.

Calling an empty whiskey bottle a dead one may be all right, but we venture to say few had a minister with them when they passed away.

Talking about war, Vernoniaites always welcome one kind of war in their city, A sugar war.

We hope the new sheriff doesn't plant himself in our back yard.

We hear that Hoover and Smith have joined the 40-8. Hoover 40, Smith 8.

Now that Christmas is nearing, do not insist upon your kids wearing half-socks, so that Santa will not have much to fill.

If babies could have voted, Smith might have won, most of them were wet.

When you're singing a song, and do not know the words, just hum, dumb, dumb, dumb.

"It won't be long now," said the turkey.

Silent Cal, went up the hill, To watch the hail and slaughter, Smith came down, without a crown

And Herbert followed laughing.

Tell your wife you're going out to buy her a dress the color to match her eyes. Come home with a pink dress. She'll see that your shopping days are over. It's worth trying before the Holidays.

The feathered Who, It's up to you, If you like it, Write the Eagle.

Mrs. Ida Kilburg and children of Newburg are coming to Timber to spend Thanksgiving with her mother and Mr. Kilburg.

Mrs. Baty of Timber went to Portland last week shopping. She is getting ready to go to Texas on a visit.

The Timber and Westimber sewing club girls will meet at the school house next Wednesday for their third meeting.

The P. T. A. gave a reception for the Timber teachers last Friday at the school house. The attendance was about 140. A program was given and refreshments served.

The C. E. party that was held at the home of Mrs. Lumm last Saturday night was the largest Timber has ever had. The attendance was about 25. Refreshments were served. Mr. Everett of Portland attended the party and said he certainly surprised at the amount of young people there were in these two towns.

The Timber and Westimber Sunday schools have combined into one Sunday school. Westimber now comes down to Timber thus making this school much larger. There are now eight different classes, which is more than there has been since the church was first built. There was an attendance of 58 last Sunday. There was also a much larger C. E. for the young people, with visitors from several different towns last Sunday. An invitation is extended to all to come and bring their friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Peterson called on Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Burris Wednesday evening on school business.

Jake Neurer was at Vernonia Monday. He worked at the Vernonia Meat Market where he is extra man week ends.

Express Thanks For Support
Portland, Nov. 15 (To the Editor)—We wish to thank you for the splendid service rendered the republican party by your publication throughout the campaign just brought to a successful close.

Newspapers of Oregon have done many effective things for the state and nation during previous campaigns but none more worthy and effective than the work of helping elect Herbert Hoover and the republican ticket.

We regret that we were unable to use more advertising space with you but finances would not permit, much to our regret.

We firmly believe that you will always cherish the memory of the great work you did in helping elect Herbert Hoover.

Very truly yours,
Phil Metschan, Chairman.

highest, on an average, in yearly production of milk and butterfat and in income over cost of feed; and those freshening in spring or summer produce the least milk and butterfat and return the smallest income over cost of feed.

Good For Fertilizer
Do not throw away commercial feed stuffs that have spoiled; if they become moldy or otherwise unfit for feed, apply them to the soil. All commercial feeds make good fertilizers, and those rich in nitrogen, such as cottonseed meal, bran, and beef scraps, are especially valuable.

High Grade Alfalfa
Rain and snow do not improve the quality of alfalfa hay. Considerable losses in the quality of alfalfa from weathering, stack spot, or shattered leaves, which occur in regions where the practice is to stack alfalfa and leave it exposed to the weather, could be avoided if it were baled at a favorable time and stored in sheds or warehouses until shipped, says the U. S. department of agriculture.

Western Corn Will Dry Without Artificial Heat

Despite the wet conditions of western Oregon field corn will dry without artificial heat. A well ventilated room protected from moisture and freezing is adequate, according to E. N. Bressman, associate professor of farm crops at the college. Open sheds have been used by many farmers with good results.

Artificial heat can be used satisfactorily, however, because it is best to remove the excess moisture from the corn as soon as possible, he pointed out. It has been found through experiments that corn with a large amount of moisture is subject to freezing and molding, which is avoided ordinarily where moisture has been reduced to 10 or 12 per cent. Corn reduced to 10 per cent moisture will stand 190 degrees below zero, figures show.

Logged-Off Land Given College For Research

Corvallis, November 19.—To gain information to guide the state in arriving at a permanent reforestation policy on the 10 million acres of privately owned forest land in Oregon, John W. Blodgett of Grand Rapids, Mich., has just deeded to Oregon State college a 2400 acre tract of cut-over land near Kerry, in Columbia county. Mr. Blodgett has long been a prominent lumberman, both in his state and this.

The tract will be divided up by the school of forestry and a part of it used as a field of study of natural reforestation, while other parts of it will be used for planting trees of various species known to do well in this country. Comparisons will be made of results gained from various treatments.
