PETTY THIEVERY

A number of cases of petty thievery have been reported of late, such as stealing of milk, chickens, garden stuff and other small items. It seems that it is being done by one or more groups of young people, some of whom are said to be married, and that their sole purpose in doing so is the thrill they derive by such acts.

It is an especially sad circumstance coming so soon after the lecture of Chief Jenkins at the Evangelical church when he clearly showed by many illustrations that crime does not pay. No doubt these young people excuse their acts under the pretense that it does not constitute crime, but is merely a series of pranks, for which they would only expect light punishment if caught or apprehended.

Perhaps all of them will tire of the "sport" and in time become useful citizens. But the chances are about 20 to 1 that if they continue these practices at least one of them will become an habitual criminal. There is likely to be one who follows the crowd with such a slight sense of wrongdoing that his feelings toward society will soon become so calloused that he only cares for personal gain made easily, no matter what the cost to others.

This one, and perhaps more, will likely made stealing first a hobby and then a business from which he will never be divorced as long as he has liberty. And the question of liberty is more uncertain than anything else in his life, for such is the fate of one who leads a life of crime. It may be one day, two days, three days, a week, a month, a year, but in the end he shall pay dearly for his waywardness in hard labor at the state penitentiary.

Those young people who are participating in these obnoxious practices of petty thievery should pause to consider what dire results their "fun" may lead to: A son or daughter following the wayward path, who has but a little while to go his selfish way, and then the arrest, prosecution and imprisonment, leaving behind broken hearts and a family of loved ones bowed down in shame.

The commandment "Thou shalt not steal" implies more than just those four words, and challenges every man or woman who has stolen to stop the pernicious practice, which requires more courage than continuing it.

Coach Austin's basketball team will be seen in action for the first time this season on the local gymnasium floor against Banks tomorrow night. A good turnout will encourage the team toward working hard for the county championship this year. That will be good for Vernonia.

An injection of typhoid vaccine immediately by all persons in Vernonia dealing with the public or handling commodities would be a wise step toward the prevention of a typhoid epidemic in this vicinity.

Those who like smelt will be interested in hearing that variety of the piscatorial game have been caught already at Clatskanie.
