LEGION STILL CARRIES ON

After the burning of the mortgage at the annual banquet of the American Legion Friday night, when many business men and their wives were present, the Legion post here can look forward to many years of community aid while the members are still young.

A feeling of good will has been built up between the townpeople and the Legion that assures the success of any project undertaken by this organization.

A drive is being organized for increasing the membership of the Nehalem Rod & Gun club. Even if you have neither a rod nor gun, join this worthy organization when solicited, knowing that you will be helping the Nehalem valley to obtain a fish hatchery here and better observance of the hunting and fishing laws of Oregon.

Those pleading the cause of the 13-month calendar are now being given so much support that it seems possible this innovation will be adopted in 1931. May all their wedding anniversaries and birthday dates they have to remember fall on their busiest days.

Now that we are again experiencing our usual wet winter, this scourge of petty ills, and some not so petty, is expected to cease.

The recount of the votes for sheriff served one very good purpose in stopping many wild and untrue rumors in regard to irregularities at the last election.

Interest of Settlers In Oregon Well Guarded

Land settlement in Oregon has attracted nation-wide attention because of its effectiveness in securing a fine type of settlers and the success in locating approximately 3500 families in the last four years with only three families not entirely satisfied with the service. In commenting on the excellent record of settling these new people on Oregon farms, W. G. Ide, Manager, State Chamber of Commerce, attributes the results to three methods followed.

The first is the system used of appraising lands in different sections of the state by the local committees composed of leading citizens who value and do not have any land for sale themselves. The new settler is thereby assured that he will not pay more than the land is actually worth. The first step in locating settlers with chances for their ultimate success is then completed.

The second feature, and along the same line, is the cooperation of the many county agents. New settlers can confer with these agents who will outline a suggested plan of development for the farm purchased. Farming in Oregon in many respects is entirely different from farming in eastern or middle western states and the help of the county agents is of great value in getting the new settlers properly started. County agents also are consulted in the purchase of lands as they soon get acquainted with practically every farm in their counties and know what it will produce.

The last feature is the welcoming committee composed of business and citizens of the community who meet the new settlers and assist them in becoming acquainted and established in their new homes. A friendly interest in new people soon results in their becoming identified with local interests and organizations and becoming permanent residents.

To Get Good Chicks

Begin now to give special attention to feeding the breeders of the poultry flock, if you want early hatches and chicks of good quality, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The ration for breeders should have somewhat more corn meal and meat scraps than that for the layers. On the other hand, milk, minerals, and green feed are of particular importance in the breeding ration. It is very desirable to have an abundance of vitamins in the breeding ration, and 2 quarts of cod-liver oil added to every 100 pounds of mash will enable the breeders to utilize the minerals in the ration. Direct sunlight is beneficial and all breeders should be allowed outdoors as much as possible. If the ground is covered with snow, keep the windows of the poultry house open whenever possible. Yearling birds usually produce better chicks than pullets, and if fed a good breeding ration during January, February, and March should produce hatching eggs of the highest quality.

Adjust The Cream Separator

Great variations in the butterfat tests of cream from a separator can be avoided. Although the butterfat content of cream can be regulated within certain limits by adjusting the cream screw or skim-milk screw, various other factors affect the butterfat test of cream, says the Bureau of Dairy Industry of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. A low speed of the separator bowl results in a low test; the machine should be run at the speed recommended by the manufacturer. Another factor is the rate of flow through the bowl, a reduction in the normal rate of flow from the supply tank to the bowl increasing the butterfat test but reducing the volume. The temperature of the milk when run through the separator is a factor. Cold milk flows through the machine more slowly than warm milk and results in a smaller volume of high testing cream. Finally high testing milk produces higher testing cream than low testing milk.

Destroy Poison Oak
Poison oak not adjacent to valuable plants may be destroyed by application of 1 1/2 to 2 pounds of salt on each square foot of soil about the plants to a distance of two feet. A strong solution of arsenate may also be applied, says the Oregon state college experiment station, but either of these materials may kill other plants if drainage from the treated area flows near them.

Apples Not Injurious to Swine
Apples fed to swine will not, Dr. B. T. Simms of the Oregon experiment station believes, cause a breaking out on the skin, as a correspondent seems to think. The eruption asked about looks like hives, and appeared on a sow that had been fed rather heavily on apples. The trouble as described seems more like mange, Dr. Simms thinks.

"Inside" Information
Roast stuffed breast of lamb is an appetizing and economical meat. Have the butcher crack the bones so that the meat may be carved between the ribs, and also make a slit under the skin close to the rib bones for a pocket to hold the stuffing. Fill this cavity with a savory forcemeat stuffing, utilizing the meat from the foreshank, sew it up, and bake slowly in an uncovered pan without water.

Everybody likes hashed brown potatoes, but everyone does not know how to prepare them. Cook 4 medium sized potatoes in their skins until tender. Remove the skins and chop the potatoes very fine, with 4 tablespoons of onion, also chopped fine, and season with 3/4 teaspoon salt, or to taste, and 1-8 teaspoon pepper. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a smooth skillet and add 1/4 cup hot water. Put the potatoes in, in a thin even layer, and cook over a low flame until golden brown. Fold the potato over like an omelet and turn onto a hot platter. Garnish with parsley.
