"The Cock Eyed World" Shows Here December 3 and 4th

A couple of leatherneck Don Juans! That's a trite way to characterize Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen as "Sergeant Quirt" and "Top Sergeant Flagg" in the Fox Movietone all talking production, "The Cock Eyed World," directed by Raoul Walsh and showing Tuesday and Wednesday at the Joy theatre.

Based on a story written by Laurence Stallings and Maxwell Anderson who coauthored the unforgettable "What Price Glory," Lowe and McLaglen are still in the marines, though it is peace time, but plenty of fighting in the tropics—and between themselves.

Pals, buddies, brothers, everything is great until one falls for a "femme." Then each claims priority and the innocent cause of the trouble must stand by while they tell each other plenty.

Of their many love affairs, three stick out prominently; one in the tropics with the gorgeous Lily Damita, another in cold Russia with fascinating Lelia Karnely, and the third at Coney Island with a real, flip American girl, Jean Barry.

Around these scorching love affairs are incidents of a most human nature, with pathos, tears, smiles, romance and thrills.

In addition to the five featured players mentioned, the supporting cast is one of first rank when one recalls the fame of El Brendel, Swede comic of vaudeville and musical comedy; Bobby Burns as "Connors"; Ivan Linow, former heavyweight wrestler known to fame as "The Russian Lion"; and Solidad Jimenez, Spanish character actress of "In Old Arizona."

Illustrated Lecture At the High School December Second

An illustrated lecture on "Ancient Americans" by H. M. Ellsworth of Portland, Ore., will be given at the next meeting of the Parent-Teachers association at 7:30 Monday evening, December 2, in the high school auditorium.

The region described in this lecture is the same as that flown over by Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh during their recent tour of Central America.

If sheep, calves, or pigs have a husky cough, lungworms should be suspected as the cause of the trouble. Good "nursing" is the safest and most satisfactory treatment in most cases, says the Bureau of Animal Industry of the U. S. department of agriculture. Infested animals should be taken off wet pasture and put on high, dry pasture, or put up and fed dry feed. A safe supply of drinking water and plenty of good feed are of value in tiding the animals over the critical stages of the disease and allowing the lungworms to die out. Sanitation and pasture rotation, isolation of infested stock, and special precautions in regard to the pasturing and watering of young animals are important preventive measures.

One of the earliest signs of an oncoming attack of measles is the reddened condition of the eyes. Tears may be noticed as excessive and almost ready to overflow the lashes during the stage of sneezing and coughing that precedes the skin eruption. These early inflammatory warnings in the eyes require no treatment. They are usually accompanied by some fear of light, and this fear of light has prompted the vicious care that is responsible not only for loss of eyesight but also for the loss of life of many children.

When Business is Good

SATURDAY night is a mighty good time to ask yourself this question: "Is our community sending more money out of town than is coming in each week?" Of course the only safe answer is "NO!"

This means that we folks in this neighborhood must patronize local supply men and merchants if we expect our town to prosper and "stay on the map."

Frankly, it means that every citizen will find it most profitable to read the advertisements in this paper every issue, and to follow their good advice.

Our advertisers are all personally interested in this town—and in YOU. They are helping you build a better home community. When business is good, their profits are being shared with you in an endless chain of co-operative betterment.
