COOPERATION

In this week's Eagle is the last issue of the high school news page, "The Timberline."

Throughout the paper this week, especially on our first page, are many short stories covering the high school activities.

We feel that this page, "The Timberline" is unique in the newspapers of Oregon, and the editorial staff of the Eagle look forward with pleasure to the commencement of our local schools in September when again this news will appear in our paper.

From the grade schools the items of interest inserted each week created much interest among the younger students. Week after week many of the grade pupils anxiously appear at the Eagle office asking if we are aware that their names will be included among those who have received 100 per cent in spelling for the past week, and that we must be sure to see that no omission is to be made.

To the Timberline staff of the past school year the editor of the Eagle wishes to express the appreciation of the paper and himself for their splendid items turned in each week, and the interest shown in building up their school page, to what we consider one of the finest in the state among high school newspapers.

Miss Charlotte Green as editor, with her staff has faithfully served her school and it is with regret that we remember that the oncoming year The Timberline staff will not include the name of Miss Charlotte Green who graduates soon.

Grade and high schools alike have united in their support of the home town paper, and as the school year ends we, of the Eagle staff, feel that at all time have we also supported our schools, always in contact with every activity sponsored by them, especially interested and active in their athletic events.

To Larry Marshall, recently appointed editor-in-chief of The Timberline, the Eagle extends congratulations to the student body in their choice, and takes this opportunity to express its willingness to cooperate with the new editor and his staff in putting The Timberline over as good or better, if possible, than before.

And to these seniors graduating we hope that you successfully carry on in life, with that fine, loyal and faithful spirit as shown throughout your school years here. We are proud of our students and the faculty, and believe that no city can boast of any better.
