HONOR THE PIONEERS

Pioneers of the Nehalem valley will hold their annual meeting at Birkenfeld Sunday. Last year nearly 300 persons attended the meeting, and it is expected that more will come this year.

The day will be a happy one for the men and women who cleared the wilderness in this part of the country. Reminiscences of former days always recall the pleasures of life rather than the sorrows. Any many of the things that "office" presented themselves as serious problems are now recalled in a jocular vein.

It will be a day of rejoicing for the pioneers—but it should also be a day for honoring the pioneers that the younger folk who came later may better appreciate this place called home—the Nehalem valley.

THE DAIRY SPECIAL

The dairy demonstration train, which will arrive in Vernonia tomorrow, is the greatest thing in the encouragement of local industry that will have ever occurred in the Nehalem valley.

Here will be demonstrated the value of intelligent breeding of livestock, and there will be demonstrations and lectures on feeding, sanitation, disease control, marketing, and increased consumption, which will be the best kind of instruction to the person interested in dairying.

Officials of the train have stated that the program will start exactly as scheduled, and ask that all those planning to attend be there promptly at 10 a.m.

This is the time of year when Vernonia is most beautiful. Frequent showers have raised a crop of grass that makes every vacant lot a park, and every roadway a pleasing contrast in color between green strips that crowd to the very edge of the traveled area.

Upon hearing that two little tots were in a car wreck Sunday, many came running to the scene of the accident with blanched faces, each fearing his own child was injured.

KOAC Lists Women's Programs

Regular KOAC radio features for women include the home-makers' program at 2:30 o'clock each day except Saturday and Sunday, including 20 minutes with Aunt Sammy; the home garden hour at 3:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon; the poultry talks at 7:15 o'clock Thursday evening; and the series of talks on opportunities in the field of home economics given at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon. In addition, many talks by specialists are scheduled, usually following Aunt Sammy's chat.

Alternate Bearing Characteristic

The idea that thinning fruits will overcome what is known as the alternate bearing habit is incorrect, says the Oregon experiment station. Alternate bearing is frequently a varietal characteristic which seems to be only slightly modified by anything the grower can do.

Overbearing Influences Color

Overbearing has a marked influence on the color of many fruits, says the Oregon experiment station. When peaches, apples or many varieties of highly colored pears touch each other during the ripening period, coloring is poor where the fruits come together. Observations have shown, too, that coloring of fruit is usually more sprightly when light crops are borne than when heavy crops are produced.

"Monkey Biz"

Carlin, Vernonia's "Lord Chesterfield," swaps his Cadillac and says a Ford. And Jack was so proud of his aristocratic car.

Carl Burgeson arrives from Montana, spends a day here with friends and suddenly giving a snorty haan, returns back to his hills and friends.

Big ads make newspapers do strange things. Some who strenuously opposed against Joseph Manning the nomination have decided to favor him during the fall campaign.

Patty Hughes who recently had all his ivories jerked out so that he could get a new set and click 'em, is celebrating because he will soon be able to torture a T-bone again.

Ed Heltham, who was spending his honeymoon at Moffitt springs hotel, when it was destroyed by fire, wires his friends that it spoiled his honeymoon. Excitement at Ed's age is severe on the heart.

Some of McGraw's friends insinuate that he turned "farmer" just prior to the primaries, so as to swing the farmer's vote. Through the columns of Monkey Biz, we wish to inform the public that McGraw has a sheep ranch.

Pete Knowles, known as the Mayor of Mist, has been trying to get signed up in the local boxing card for the main event for the next smoker and asked for the commission to sign up Edon Wallace for his opponent.

This column will be open free to those who can tell a larger fish story than Bill Charlesworth. It would be interesting to read, regardless how bare of truth.

4-H Club Holds Summer Session

JUNE 9 TO 21 AT OREGON STATE COLLEGE

Club Members From Over Entire State to Attend Meet

Each year during the month of June a two week Summer School of 4-H club members is conducted at Oregon Agricultural College.

It is the outstanding 4-H club activity of the year, which enables club members from all over the state to gather for additional instruction in subjects relating to their club projects. The 4-H club summer school assembles boys and girls from all over the state into a common group, so organized that they may profit by their association with one another, learn better methods in agriculture and home economics and return this valuable information and experience to other boys and girls in their communities who are unable to attend.

All club members who were awarded scholarships at the 1929 State Fair, or at county or community fairs, also any club members 12 years of age or over whose 1930 club work is up to date and who is elected as a delegate or is paying his or her expenses may attend.

The cost of the 4-H club summer school per member is $15 for the two weeks, which amount approximately covers the actual cost of room and board. Each club member should bring some extra money for incidentals that he may wish to purchase, but should not bring more than a few dollars. Boys will live at the men's new dormitory building, while the girls will live in Waldo and Kidder halls. In addition to county chaperones coming with the representative groups, preceptresses and matrons in immediate charge of the dormitories. All members of the club summer school, including those not having county chaperones are under the supervision of an adequate staff of older persons throughout the session.

Every club member attending should bring all necessary toilet articles and bedding needed, including blanket, sheets and comforts. In addition to this gym clothing, tennis shoes, tennis rackets and baseball gloves, while not absolutely necessary, are very useful. If a club member plays a musical instrument in an orchestra or harmonica band, bring the instrument.

It is assumed that all persons attending will be in a good state of health before they will be permitted to come. A trained nurse will be on duty throughout the session and a physician will be called whenever deemed advisable.

The forenoon of each day is spent in classroom and laboratory instruction. Here the club members receive information in regard to the different fields in agriculture and home economics by the regular members of the college faculty and specialists.

The program is arranged and subjects chosen in such a manner that the club members attending receive not only subject matter information, but also related subjects that are important in the further development of the head, hands, heart and health of every club member attending.

Assemblies are an important part of the group activities at the summer school. It is here that the club members of the state have the opportunity to meet important people of the state and nation. Here also the club members carry on their group singing.

Motion pictures, parties, programs prepared by the club members themselves, are the favorite forms of evening entertainment. For those who have never seen the ocean, a trip to Newport is arranged including a side trip to the light house. This trip, however, is not included in the regular summer school fees. Each county represented is scheduled to appear at least once before the microphone of station KOAC in order that the delegates may have an opportunity of telling the folks back home of their experiences.

Transportation: Arrangements have been made so that all county delegations will arrive on scheduled time, travel by train has been arranged for Columbia county on Sunday, June 8.

Getting Ready For School

When parents become fully educated to their responsibility for their children, and realize that not only at the pre-school period is a physical examination desirable, but also at periodic intervals from the time of birth onward, the Getting Ready for school campaign as a special activity will become unnecessary.

Children should be examined at regular intervals by the family physician. Medical and dental inspection is recommended.

The Getting Ready for school campaign is a challenge to parents to perform a great service for the school. The co-operation of doctors and dentists should be secured through the local medical and dental societies, which professional men in good standing are usually connected.

The American Dental association says that upon the condition of the first teeth depends in a large measure that of the second set and consequently the whole condition of the child. Dental defects are present in an appalling majority of our pre-school children and special emphasis should be laid on their correction.

The object of the "Getting Ready for School Campaign" is to send to school, in the entering grade, a class of 100 per cent free from remediable defects. These children should also have been immunized against smallpox and diphtheria.

A study of half a million children begun by Thomas D. Wood in 1918, and reported by Harry H. Moore in "Public Health in the United States," published in 1923, focused attention on the fact that rural children were as much or more handicapped than city children because of neglected remediable defects. Dr. Wood summarized the results as follows:

Defects	Country	City
Tooth	48.8	23.58
Teeth	23.14	16.42
Adenoids	23.4	12.5
Eye defects	21	13.4
Malnutrition	16.6	7.65

The fact that in spite of the disadvantages of city life, children from large cities are lowest in physical defects speaks well for the standards of living and the present day health practice in our cities. Cities have for a long time paid attention to preparing children for school.
