Free Movie Shows Ford Auto Plant

A sound motion picture graphically portraying the story of the Ford Motor company and its widespread activities will be exhibited free of charge in a special Ford exhibit to be held at the Kerr Motor Company's show rooms March 25. The show will be open to the public from 2 p. m. to 10 p. m.

The picture entitled "A Tour Through the Ford Factory" will show the gathering of raw materials, their arrival at the Rouge plant in Dearborn, Michigan, and the numerous interesting stages through which they pass in the process of making Ford cars and trucks. It is, in short, an education in the extent and meaning of modern volume production.

While an unseen voice explains each scene, the audience is taken on a tour of the plant, through the great blast furnace building where ore is converted into iron; into the open hearth building where the iron becomes steel and is poured, a white hot liquid, into molds; into the blooming mill where the steel ingots are made into bars; and into the rolling mill in which the long bars of white hot steel are reduced to definite sizes.

The picture shows also the manufacture of glass in an endless unbroken strip, a process developed by Ford engineers; the machine shops in which parts for the car are manufactured; the pressed steel building with its gigantic presses; and the coke ovens and other units in which by-products are recovered to the extent of millions of dollars annually.
