Voters to Pass On 14 Measures

Five Involve Proposed Constitutional Changes

Voters of Oregon will be required to pass judgment on 13 measures at the time of the state election next November.

Seven of these will be measures initiated by the people, three will be measures referred to the voters by the last legislature and three will be legislative acts against which the referendum has been invoked.

Five of the 13 measures involve proposed amendments to the state constitution. The other eight are statutory provisions.

The seven initiated measures are:

Constitutional amendment providing for creation of county tax conservation commission with authority to pass on reasonable bond issues and tax levies, sponsored by the Oregon Taxpayers' Equalization and Conservation League;

Constitutional amendment enlarging the scope of the state water power and hydroelectric amendment sponsored by the state grange;

Tax Supervising and Conservation Bill authorizing governor to appoint commission of three members in each county to serve without pay, sponsored by Oregon Taxpayers' Equalization and Conservation League;

Personal Income Tax Law amendment, increasing tax rate in higher brackets and reducing exemptions, sponsored by Oregon Taxpayers' Equalization League;

Freight Truck and Bus bill imposing additional fees and restrictions on trucks and buses, sponsored by Highway Protective Association;

University - State College Consolidation bill, sponsored by Marion County Taxpayers' Equalization League;

Bill to repeal state prohibition law, sponsored by Harry B. Critchlow of Portland.

The three referred measures, all proposed constitutional amendments, include the following proposals: Providing for taxpayer qualifications for voters on bond issues and tax levies; Authorizing criminal trials without juries by consent of the accused.

Enlarging the basis for computation of the six per cent limitation on tax levies.

The three legislative acts against which the referendum has been invoked, automatically suspending their operation until after the November election, are: Rogue River Fishing bill, closing that stream to commercial fishing, referendum sponsored by F. D. Postel and 11 other residents of Wedderburn; Olemargarine tax bill, imposing a tax on the manufacture and sale of this commodity, referendum sponsored by the Anti-Food Tax League; Higher Education Appropriation bill, appropriating $1,183,000 from the general fund of the state for maintenance of the state's five institutions of higher education, referendum sponsored by Marion county Taxpayer's Equalization League.

Referendums invoked against three other legislative acts were abandoned by their sponsors and ten initiative measures for which preliminary petitions were filed with the secretary of state were never completed.

Wilson Surveyors Appear to Prefer Glenwood Approach

Surveyors on the Wilson river road this week moved their headquarters from Forest Grove to a camp on Elliot creek located three quarters of a mile from the summit.

Present indications are that the line of the former Burns survey coming out at Glenwood will be followed. The new survey represents many eliminations of curves and the reduction of grade. The survey from Forest Grove going from Forest Grove up the south side of Gales creek and the head of Scoggins creek did not result in a satisfactory line from the standpoint of economy of construction.

This fact has resulted in the return to the first line surveyed by the present crew which will connect up with the survey made from the Tillamook side and is expected to be designed officially at the highway route in the near future.
