CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank those who circulated petitions and those who signed them asking Governor Meier to appoint me county judge of this county. Also, all others who endeavored to advance my cause.

Upon the advice of friends and upon a statement made by the Governor's secretary over the telephone Tuesday to Mr. Dewey, that an appointment would not be made for two days, neither my application for the position nor the petitions ever reached the Governor.

I shall, however, keep the petitions as a further reminder of your kindness to me and my family during our residence in Vernonia.

Very sincerely,
J. B. WILKERSON

FORMER "SOURDOUGH" CONSTRUCTS MINERS CABIN NEAR KEASEY

Charles Comstock, formerly an Alaskan "sourdough," is completing a cabin near the power plant modeled after an Alaskan miner's cabin. Mr. Comstock lives with his son, George Comstock, engineer at the plant.

Visitors will be welcome at the cabin, Mr. Comstock says.

Little R. A. George, who was seriously hurt recently when a flower box fell upon him, is reported from the Doernbecher hospital to be in no danger. Some trouble, however, has been experienced in reducing the fracture.

Ginseng is a fleshy-rooted herbaceous plant native to the eastern United States. It was formerly of frequent occurrence in shady, well-drained situations in hardwood forests of central New York. In Oriental countries, especially in China ginseng root is considered a panacea or a so-called "Gift of the Gods," supposed to cure anything from a stomach ache to tuberculosis. The western world does not recognize any special medicinal properties in ginseng. The plant has little domestic value and its standing as a commodity depends upon the distant foreign market in China.

Cork Oaks Long Producers

Cork is the outer bark of the cork oak, of which there are vast forests in Portugal, Spain and North Africa. A tree must be about twenty years old before it gives its first so-called virgin cork. Virgin cork is of little commercial value. The next harvest is not ready for stripping for nearly a decade, but this stripping, too, is of little commercial value. The product from each subsequent stripping of the tree, however, improves in quality. When a tree reaches the age of forty years, its bark may be called high-grade cork. Cork oaks produce for more than a century.

Became Cruel King

Sennacherib was the son of Sargon, commander in chief of Assyria under Shalmaneser, who seized the throne upon that monarch's death displacing the infant heir Ninipiluya, and became a very wise, successful and cruel king. It is thought that glass was invented in his reign. He is mentioned in Isaiah 20:1, and is especially notable as a conqueror of Babylon, chief city of Babylonians on the Euphrates.

Miracle and Mystery Plays

Halleck, in his "English Literature," says that "A miracle play is the dramatic representation of the life of a saint and of the miracles connected with him. A mystery play deals with gospel events which are concerned with any phase of the life of Christ, or with any biblical event that remotely foreshadows Christ or indicates the necessity of a Redeemer."
