WE KILL 'EM OFF FAST (Forest Log)

One of the CCC roads being constructed from Green mountain towards the Nehalem river follows near the top of the ridge above Rock creek. Down below a quarter of a mile away there is an old abandoned camp belonging to the Oregon American Co. A bee man has taken charge and on a level place has installed about 150 of his hives, all nicely painted white. Recently, while taking a crew of men to work, one of the CCC boys inquired of the driver what those white things were down there.

"Oh," replied the driver, "That is just a cemetery where we bury the loggers. Those are the tombstones."

The lad was shocked at the high mortality among the loggers.
