the state board of review and the number of hogs in Columbia county was cut down by them from 4,732 as signed up by the farmers to 3,139, or nearly a 35 per cent reduction, and the county allotment committee had no choice but to bring the figures within the total number of hogs allotted by the state board. The farmers signing the contracts are then required to reduce the number of hogs an additional 25 per cent for the number that they could raise for this year and on which they would be paid.

The members of the allotment committee are C. E. Zimmer, A. J. Unruh, Axel H. Carlson.

"LET'S QUIT KILLING" CODE IS ISSUED FOR PEDESTRIANS IN DRIVE

While most enforcement and educational efforts of the statewide "Let's Quit Killing" safety drive of the Oregon State Motor association, P. T. A., American Legion and other groups, are being directed against drivers of automobiles which during the first eight months of 1934 killed 190 persons and injured 3068 in the state, sponsors of the campaign this week issued a "code" for pedestrians, observance of which it is believed will help reduce Oregon's terrific accident toll.

Approximately 50 per cent of accident fatalities are pedestrians, it was pointed out. Following are seven rules contained in the pedestrians' "code":

1. Never cross streets between intersections.
2. Do not cross streets in front

Be present every Sunday that you possibly can.

Forest roads built by members of the CCC in Oregon and Washington if stretched in single line from the Pacific Coast, would reach across the continent and back—almost to Chicago. Not bad for the CCC.

of oncoming cars at night, especially if wearing dark clothes or the weather is rainy.

3. Remember it is easier for a pedestrian than for the driver of an auto weighing more than a ton, to make a sudden stop.

4. Don't step into the street from between parked cars.

5. When crossing a street in traffic, don't oscillate "like a sewing machine shuttle"—proceed slowly and steadily ahead so motorists may know which way you are going.

6. Give consideration to the fact that pedestrians are permitted to walk on both sidewalks and streets, while the motorist is required to remain between curb limits.

7. Always walk on the left side of a highway, facing traffic; step off the pavement when a car passes you.
