Ralph Condit returning from a tour to the pencil sharpener with a frown on his face.

Leo Ludwig says he studied his Biology real hard and thinks Mr. Skuzie ought to have given him a one plus. (Mr. Skuzie probably thinks a four minus was enough).

The Junior English class has begun the work in Journalism. Don't feel too bad, Charleen, maybe we'll develop some geniuses to help you out.

Some people find the most amusing things to play with. For instance, Bert Mills and Lolamae Smith enjoy rolling a spool back and forth to each other.

Doris Anderson tasting to see if "it" was salt or sugar. It would be tragic if Miss Drake's cocoa was sweetened with salt.

Helen Messing hitting Earl King in study hall. Shame, Earl, for picking on a girl.

Katherine Dawler telling Mr. Skuzie that if he would give her a one in Latin, she would bring him an apple. Is that how you get your good grades in Latin, Katie?

One of the football players throwing water on Toshi Kuge, athletic manager, at the football game. That's how well they appreciated the H O.

Violet Ennis telling the senior English class she is an airdale puppy.

Mr. McEntire removing a beauty shop sign from the Junior room.

Skeezics, our fearless biology teacher, pursuing a spider.

Mr. Skuzie eating a cookie during the typing class. The girls of the home ec class had given it to him. (He said he had an iron constitution).

INSECTS IN BIOLOGY ROOM

It wouldn't take a genius to tell that biology is taught in Mr. Skuzie's room, for on the side table and on the top of his desk is a grand variety of bottles and Several local folks attended the funeral services of Vernon Jones and Helen Brimmer at Vernonia Tuesday.

The home economics committee of three, all having birthdays in October, were each honored with a birthday cake at a grange meeting on Wednesday of last week. The trustees had charge of the program. Mrs. Alice Lindsay, Mrs. Laura Carmichael and Mrs. Clo Banzer are the home economics committee.

Geo. Baslington and his helpers started to fell timber of Clark and Wilson between Noble Dunlap's and Jake Neurer's.

ART OF BREAD MAKING IS BEING REVIVED

Tasty bread and light rolls as well as an inexpensive liquid yeast will be demonstrated at the meeting of the Vernonia Home Extension Unit to be held Wednesday, October 24, at the Vernonia high school under the direction of Mrs. Maud C. Purvine, home demonstration agent.

All housewives, or those interested in bread making, are invited jars, containing different insects.

In one of the jars there was a snake and a spider. The snake disappeared one day. Dick Lewis tells gruesome tales about how the spider ate the snake, but we don't believe it.

But as a whole it makes biology more interesting and shows that a few are really studying.
