RAINBOW GIRLS ENJOY SIGNIFICANT EVENT

The year's most significant event for Nehalem assembly, Order of Rainbow for Girls, was the occasion of the official visit of the grand worthy advisor, Jessie Collins of Mt. Scott assembly in Portland, in the Masonic temple Monday evening.

Other grand officers present at the local assembly were Virginia Hill, grand immortality of Rose City assembly in Portland; Lois Hogan, grand treasurer from St. Helens, and Mary Ann Childs, grand hope, of Vernonia.

Another distinguished visitor was Mr. Layman of Portland who is active in fostering the work of Rainbow. His gift of a white Rainbow Bible was presented to Sara McGee, worthy advisor of Nehalem assembly, by Miss Collins, the grand worthy advisor, during the ceremonies. Last summer he presented a Bible to Mary Ann Childs at the grand assembly in Albany.

A gift from Nehalem assembly was presented to Miss Collins, and all grand officers and visitors, including 10 from St. Helens were introduced.

Sara McGee was also presented with a gavel made by a Portland member of the Masonic fraternity interested in Rainbow work.

Montana French was the candidate for initiation.

Two short plays were given during the social hour which followed the ceremonies. Alice Baker sang a solo.

Tables at which late supper was served by members of the Eastern Star were beautifully decorated by Verla Messing in original designs especially appropriate for the occasion.

The table for honor guests and distinguished visitors was centered with a doll dressed in a white gown with a rainbow colored crown and holding streamers in the Rainbow colors. Tall white tapers and a semi-circle of greens completed a most attractive arrangement.

Other tables carried centerpieces arranged as seven-point stars in Rainbow colors with a white taper in the center of each and the appropriately colored candle at each point of the star.

Rainbow activities during the immediate pre-Christmas season include a dance to be given tonight (Friday) December 14, in the Odd Fellows hall, and a Christmas party Monday night, Dec. 17, in the Masonic temple to which all members of the Masonic fraternity and the order of Eastern Star are invited.
