

Site of New York's Proposed World's Fair

This air view shows the site for the proposed world's fair to be held in New York city starting on April 30, 1939. It is a tract of 1,003 acres, some two miles in length and about a third that distance in its greatest width. The location is now known as the proposed Flushing Meadow park and is situated in the borough of Queens. Inset is a portrait of George McAneny, chairman of the committee that is drawing up the preliminary plans. The fair is to commemorate the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the establishment of the government of the United States and the inauguration of George Washington as President.

Farmers Hear President at Fremont

Thirty-five thousand farmers gathered at Fremont, Neb., to hear President Roosevelt speak from the rear platform of his car as he was journeying to the west coast. He was given an enthusiastic welcome.

Poland's New Liner at New York

A new transatlantic liner, the Pilsudski, built especially for the moderate-income group and designed for complete ship-board democracy, made its maiden voyage to New York from Gdynia, Poland, recently. It is the first liner to be built by Poland since it regained its independence and built its own port at Gdynia. The photograph shows the Pilsudski arriving in New York harbor five hours ahead of her schedule.
