CLASS VISITS STATE INSTITUTIONS

Seventeen students and Mr. Mills left early in the morning for Salem and enjoyed an entertaining and profitable day.

Miss Wilkinson is leaving Thursday afternoon for Corvallis where she will attend the Oregon State Conference for Teachers' of Speech which will be held April 22-23.

TYPING CLASSES HOLD TOURNAMENT

Typing I students are engaged, at present, in a typing tournament to see who is the fastest typist in the three first year classes. The tournament began Monday, April 18, and will end Thursday or Friday.

The students were paired off for the first day's typing and the winners of each pair typed against each other the following day, choosing their partners according to the schedule made at the beginning of the tournament. Today, the third day of play, finds most of the students eliminated through the process of single elimination.

Monday's play saw Truman Knight take the lead in the very beginning with the highest score, 52 words per minute. Ada Mills followed second with 43, and Elizabeth Schalock third with 42.

Tuesday found Truman still far in the lead with a rate of 55. Fritz Hausler came up with a rate of 46. Elizabeth Schalock, Dorothy Myers, Kiyoko Kuge, Ada Mills, Art Kilby, Howard Rundell, Gertrude McCabe and Junior Thompson were also left to compete on Wednesday.

The Forum

The Vernonia Eagle Vernonia, Oregon.

I would like to invite all those I count my friends in Vernonia to the Fifty First Annual Commencement, Monday evening, May 30, at eight o'clock, at McArthur Court, Eugene, Oregon, at which I will receive my Bachelor of Science degree.

During the years I went to school in Vernonia and lived there I have always noted that the Eagle did everything in its power to improve the community and that of late even more effort is being made to provide for the city a more active program of recreation. A public minded paper like the Vernonia

Eagle can be of the greatest benefit to the community of any of its institutions.

Yours sincerely, Howard R. Lee

The Board of Directors of District No. 55, Columbia County, Oregon and Columbia County School Superintendent:

Approximately three months ago I wrote two letters to Supt. Schnebly informing him of the flag pole being down for two years in our school district. Florence Ohler was janitor when the pole went down and she is now finishing her second year in high school. The answer I got from him was the sum-total of how nice appearing our school looked.

On March 4, 1938 I asked a director to take the matter up at the meeting to be held one half hour later. On the 24th of March another meeting was held and I again asked the clerk of the district, Mr. William Anderson, to take up the subject of the flag pole with the directors at the said meeting.

Will the board of directors, Herbert Engen, Carl Jensen and Clifford Bergerson, or Supt. Schnebly give reason why the flag pole has not been put up?

Is it because there are no poles in the country, no money, no men to do the work, or is it because the taxpayer must be called to authorize your work done?

Answer please, Elmer Bergerson

Resolved:

That Vernonia Townsend club members extend their deepest sympathy to the Comstock family in the loss of their father, and that a copy of this resolution be entered in the minutes of the regular meeting and a copy be sent to the Vernonia Eagle.

Many Drivers Lose Permits In 3 Months

Intoxication Major Cause for Revocation, Secretary of State Avers

Enforcement machinery in Oregon has taken driving privileges from more traffic violators in the last three months than during any other first quarter in the state's history, Secretary of State Earl Snell said this week.

Intoxicated drivers have been the chief offenders in this period, Snell said. Licenses of one hundred ninety-six operators have been revoked since January 1 for this offense.

Altogether, license suspensions and revocations during the first three months of this year were nearly half again as numerous as during the first quarter of 1937. Snell believes this indicates stricter enforcement and better cooperation between state departments, rather than more disobedience of law. This belief is borne out by the fact that actual convictions for traffic offenses during March were considerably lower than during March last year.

Automobile owners should be extremely careful about allowing other persons to borrow their cars, Snell stated. He pointed out that three-fifths of the drivers who have lost their licenses subject to the safety responsibility act this year were not owners of the automobiles they were driving at the time of their arrest.

"This means," said Snell, "that in many cases borrowed cars were being driven by intoxicated or irresponsible drivers, probably without the owner's knowledge of the manner in which his car was being used. It is not only the right but the duty of automobile owners to check up on the use of their cars, and to lend them only to drivers they know to be responsible."

Forests of Oregon Are Much Used

How the national forests have become the average family's playground in Oregon and Washington is shown in replies to questionnaires in connection with a nationwide report on recreation now being compiled by the U. S. forest service.

Some 4,000 replies received from visitors to hundreds of national forest camp grounds in the two states show that more than 90 per cent.

were city dwellers, mainly from the ranks of labor, business, and the professions, and that their average income was between $1,000 and $2,000 a year. The estimated number of campers on the national forests of Oregon and Washington increased from 270,000 in 1928 to 470,000 in 1937 and the estimated number of picnickers has increased from 300,000 in 1928 to 709,000 in 1937.

Of importance to tourist agencies is the information that 18 per cent. of the users of Oregon national forest camp grounds hail from outside the state. In Washington, 11 per cent. of the forest users are out-of-state visitors. Ten per cent. of the forest visitors in Oregon and four per cent in Washington hail from California, according to figures which are based upon 2,619 replies from Oregon, and 1,659 replies from Washington.
