Japan current, a warm flow of water supposedly circulating past our own coasts had changed in such a manner that the raise tests revealing that the temperature of the ocean off the Pacific coast had raised a number of degrees in the past few years, sufficiently so to serve as an explanation for the increased runs of tuna in waters along this coast.

had occurred. Not being in a position to disagree with the scientist little argument can be made with the contention so that it can be assumed as correct.

However the statement that the increased temperature has led to increased runs of tuna might be broadened to include also a more mild winter. Geologists contend that those countries bordering warm bodies of water may expect more mild and even weather conditions throughout the entire year. Could not the rising ocean temperatures also be partly responsible for the mild Oregon winters which are experienced each year on the western slope?

DIPHTHERIA CLINIC, A PREVENTATIVE MEASURE—

THE DECISION last week to stage the diphtheria clinic here this week was one that will very likely mean less suffering for the many children attending Vernonia schools.

A few cases of the disease have made their appearance in Washington county thus making necessary immediate measures to prevent a spread of the malady in this county. Parents having children not having taken preventative precautions will do well to see that the protection is received.

COUNTY NEWS--

St. Helens--

SCAPPOOSE ORE TO BE USED IN REDUCTION PLANT—

As was first announced in The St. Helens Sentinel-Mist in the issue of Friday, February 16, a new iron reduction industry using ore mined in the Scappoose district will be located in the greater Portland area. Formal announcement of the industry financed by western capital and utilizing Bosneville power and northwest iron ore, limestone and coal, was made last Tuesday by Paul J. Raver, Bonneville power administrator.

While the industry, Sierra Iron Company, a Nevada corporation, will be located in Vancouver, Wash., several sites in Portland and also Columbia city were first considered by representatives of the company.

The Sierra company will purchase its ore from D. Earle Stewart, mining engineer, who has acquired extensive properties in the vicinity of Scappoose and elsewhere which will be immediately developed by him with shipments of ore by rail and water to Vancouver. Stewart has done 15 months work on the Scappoose deposits and is acquiring titles, leases and mining claims. He said the Scappoose ore is equal to most ores used in the United States and Europe and better than a great many.

The mining will be open pit operation, utilizing power shovels and will begin on a tract about three miles west of Scappoose. The property is owned by D. W. Price of Scappoose.

50 MEN ENGAGED MOVING WPA CAMP TO SCAPPOOSE—

A crew of 50 men are engaged in installing equipment and moving buildings of the WPA road camp from Chapman to Scappoose this week. Work on the new Scappoose-Vernonia highway will occupy at least six more months to complete.

CONSTRUCTION OF NEW CITY JAIL STARTS IN FEW DAYS—

Construction of the new city jail will start in a few days on property adjacent to the St. Helens fire station on Columbia boulevard. Contract for the concrete structure, which will cost $3,380, was awarded last week by the city council to William Quigley, Portland contractor.

The Forum

To the Employees of the Oregon American Lumber Corporation:

It seems that there is a movement on the part of our Labor Organizations to ask for a very substantial raise in pay for all men in the lumber industry.

At first thought this seems a very meritorious idea and one that the laboring man should indorse but another thought may seem to qualify this action.

In the first place is this the proper time to make such a demand? Is the price of lumber and cost of production such that the industry can pay this additional wage at this time?

Is the immediate future of the industry so assured that we can assume a continuance of even the present price of our product.

It is presidential election year and if you will look back over history is it not a fact that during each such year not only our industry but all industry is accustomed to mark time and see what is to be the result of the election before taking any radical steps in production or expansion.

If at such a time labor demands so large an increase in pay, is there not a very definite peril that the management might prefer to close the plant rather than to add so materially to the cost of production without assurance of a continuous or a rising market?

Before you vote to make such a demand please give serious thought to the above.

We who sell our labor wish to do so as advantageously as possible but if by asking too much we destroy the market we now have, and it is conceivable we might do exactly that, we might be killing the goose, etc., etc.

Let us "think on these things".

To the Editor:

We the neighbors and friends of Mayo Jean Pettijohn were saddened at the untimely passing of a boy in the bloom of youth.

Mayo was loved by all who knew him and his big smile and happy disposition brightened and made one wish for more like him. But if his passing will make other boys, who take high powered guns into the brush, stop, look and listen, his short stay on this earth will not have been in vain.
