Heard the Story About the SINGING Cash Register?

There once was a clerk who felt sorry for one of his very poor customers and accepted a canary as barter for merchandise. The canary became caught in the cash register and ever since that fatal day, the cash drawer sings when opened.

The moral of the story is for you to investigate why your cash register has been so silent. It'll take more than a canary bird to make it sing . . . it takes consistent advertising to the public!
