WITH THE LAWMAKERS
 Rep. Richard Neuberger (D) of Multnomah and J. D. Perry (D) of Columbia county with 31 each. Senate President Dean Walker (R) of Polk and Senator George Dunn (R) of Jackson did not introduce a single bill. Senator Earl Fisher (R) of Washington county and Rep. C. C. Bradley (R) of Multnomah sponsored only one bill each. The lawmakers worked 22 days overtime, and received a total of $120, which is $1.93 per day for their labor. The single exception to this average remuneration was Harris Ellsworth, Roseburg newspaper man, who was appointed to succeed Senator Clark, deceased. Ellsworth arrived at the capital at 3 o'clock the afternoon prior to adjournment, was sworn in and, under the law, was entitled to draw mileage, at least a day's pay, a set of Oregon codes valued at $60, stationery and stamps. Not a bad wage for one day's work. . . The writer of this column has enjoyed the opportunity afforded by it to report the highlights of the legislative session and trusts subscribers to this paper have found equal enjoyment in reading it. Here's hoping we may have like opportunity in the future.
