Scheduled Games Started Monday Eve.

A schedule of games for the Vernonia Softball League finally began Monday evening at the city park when a drawing for positions on the schedule was made and the first two games were played. According to the drawing the first two games were the Pal Shop vs. Wilark and the O-A vs. IWA. Wilark was victorious in the first encounter by a score of 6 to 4 and the O-A nine 22 to 6 in its game with the IWA. The schedule of games for the next four weeks has been prepared and appears on this page for the benefit of managers and players who wish to know when their teams play.

The schedule was broken Tuesday evening due to the exhibition game with the Negro Ghosts and the IWA. The Negroes won by a 5 to 0 score. The softball league's percentage of the admission price at the exhibition game will be used to defray the expenses of the lights. That procedure will be followed at later times during the season when other exhibition games can be arranged.

How Miles Per Gallon Drop as Miles Per Hour Rise

This graph prepared by the Oregon State Motor Association shows the sharp decrease in miles per gallon of gasoline received when miles per hour are increased. The graph was drawn from figures furnished by the U. S. Bureau of Standards. As a part of the AAA plan to conserve gasoline, the Oregon State Motor Association is urging all motorists to decrease their average driving speeds to cut the consumption of gasoline.

Means of Averting Gas Shortage Is Proposed

By Dr. E. B. McDaniel
Pres., Oregon State Motor Assoc'n.

Motorists throughout the country have been alarmed by the reports that soon we will be having "gasolineless Sundays" and other forms of government rationing of gasoline.

The situation is really a serious one. At the present time the east coast areas are the ones directly affected. The American Petroleum Institute has submitted a detailed report to the Office of Production Management showing that an acute transportation problem has been caused by the transfer of oil tankers from the coastal trade to Great Britain and the United States Navy.

The report emphasized that we have no fear of shortage from actual production of petroleum products but that the matter of transporting the oil to distribution centers is the problem. Even now substitute transportation systems (such as pipelines) are being completed to meet the emergency. Until these are in use next year, the shortage will be felt.

Rationing Can Be Prevented

Immediately following the publication of the API report, President Thomas P. Henry, of the American Automobile Association (the Oregon State Motor Association is the local affiliate) sent a letter to Petroleum Coordinator Harold Ickes inclosing the AAA plan to prevent rationing and "gasolineless Sundays".

The AAA plan is simple and with the whole-hearted co-operation of the motoring public will save up to twenty per cent of present consumption of gasoline.

AAA Plan Explained

1. The plan is this: Every motorist reduces his average driving speed.
2. Every motorist avoids "jack-rabbit" getaways and other wasteful driving practices.
3. Every motorist has his car adjusted for maximum fuel capacity.

Voluntary Conservation the Answer

I think that everyone will agree if we can meet this threatened shortage by the voluntary cooperation of everyone, the problem has been solved in an American way.

Secretary Ickes has heartily endorsed this AAA plan of conservation and the plan has been adopted in virtually all its phases by the special Petroleum Conservation of the District of Columbia.

The average American motorist is an extravagant driver. Speeding along the highway, getting off a sudden starts in city driving, and operating cars not adjusted for maximum fuel consumption efficiency, the nation's motorists each year burn millions upon millions of gallons of gasoline unnecessarily. During times of petroleum over-production these extravagant habits had an unfavorable effect only on the motorist's pocketbook. Today, when shortages threaten certain sections of the country because of transportation difficulties, it is imperative that motorists stop this waste and begin conserving gasoline.

Book Talk . . .

By EDNA ENGEN

"In books lies the soul of the whole Past Time: the articulate audible voice of the Past, when the body and material substance of it has altogether vanished like a dream"

—Thomas Carlyle.

"Oliver Wiswell" by Kenneth Roberts.

This is another historical novel by the author of "Northwest Passage". This time, the story is of the Colonies and the American Revolution.

Mr. Roberts has set forth the little known and greatly misunderstood Loyalist side of the American Revolution.

The story is full of action and adventure and the author has created a hero, Oliver Wiswell, steadfastly loyal to his ideals and a passionate advocate of justice and truth.

MEN WANTED

There's more than one way that advertising brings men to work.

The most important way is when advertising is used to increase sales.

Instead of "men wanted," it says "customers wanted."

And more customers mean more jobs in the stores and factories that keep busy by using advertising.
