Maxine John Marries
Elgus Frank Thursday—

Pythian Sisters Have Concluding Meeting

Maxine John, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry John, and Elgus Frank, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Frank, were united in marriage by Reverend Scheuerman at 8:30 p.m., Thursday at the Evangelical church. Preceding the ceremony Helen Frank sang "Because" and "At Dawning," accompanied by Eileen Enos, who also played the traditional processional, "Here Comes the Bride." The bride was given in marriage by her father, Miss John was attended by a matron of honor who was her sister, Jeannette Chance. The best man was Mervel Frank, brother of the groom. Joanne Chance, a niece of the bride, was flower girl, and wore a dress of yellow net.

The bride wore pearl clips on her satin and lace gown. Her veil was finger-tip length, her halo, of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses, orchids, and blue delphiniums. The matron of honor was gowned in pink all-over lace or net, and carried a nosegay of sweetpeas and rosebuds. The couple were united beneath an arch of white rose buds and mock orange blossoms. Ushers were Messrs. Alban Colson, Delbert Parrish, and Elgus Frank, an uncle of the groom.

Following the ceremony a reception for about 90 relatives was held. The bride's table was decorated with pink and white ribbon streamers. Bowers of roses and mock orange blossoms were placed around the hall. Serving at the reception were Mrs. Delbert Parrish of Garibaldi, Lawanda Stanon, Wilma Lou John, and Marcia John—all of Portland, and the following local girls: Helen Frank, Jeanette Chance, Vona Weidman, Geraldine Riggins, Lucille Colson, Zonweis Doulass, and Carolyn Romtvedt.

Following a few days of honeymooning at South Coast, the newlyweds are residing at the Austin apartments. She is continuing to work in the mill office and he, in the mill.

Lona Weidman and Bessie Tapp are the alternates.

The Pythian Sisters met at the home of Clara Lindsley June 24th for the last meeting for this season. A picnic dinner was enjoyed by all. There were 13 ladies and 5 children present. Those attending included one visitor.

Mrs. America Meets the War

Right from the trying pan into the war effort—that's where more than a half billion pounds of Mrs. America's waste cooking fats and "pan drippings" will be going soon. By saving "pan drippings" and "fat trimmings" you will be helping to replace the loss of fats and oils from the Far East. Fats make glycerine, and glycerine helps make military explosives. And that is the meaning of salvaging from American kitchens drippings from roast ham, beef, lamb and poultry, boiler drippings from steaks, chops and bacon, deep fat whether lard or vegetable shortening from fried potatoes, fish or doughnuts. A nationwide drive in July will start the collection at neighborhood chain stores, meat markets and frozen food lockers.

Even Mrs. America's junior may be taking to the colors—at least, for his three-cornered pants. Maybe you've heard that Navy blue, battleship grey and MacArthur tan are being shown for the war babies besides the ordinary white birdseye. That's not all—these last word diapers are said to be special black-out costumes for junior. Phosphorescent ties, we understand, answer the problem of pinning baby's pants during a blackout without a casualty. And this guarantees that junior won't be a case of mistaken identity in the dark. He can be distinguished from the neighbor's infant by the motif you choose for the phosphorescent ties.

Yarn that goes into your rayon stockings is put through the process of "throwing" or twisting, and consequently it is subject to a new price regulation on rayon yarn applying to commission converters and sellers of converted yarn. This means that the price has been stabilized for manufacturers who in turn may continue selling their products at March prices. Converting, incidentally, means preparing the yarn for weaving and knitting by such processes as twisting, warping dyeing and spooling. A total of 44,000,000 pounds of rayon yarn

If you send a gift to the boy you know in the service and choose one of those sets containing either toothpaste or shaving cream, you won't need to turn in an old collapsible tube. This is the only instance in which you can buy tubes of toothpaste or shaving cream without a turn in, and it is the result of an amendment allowing dealers to clear their stocks of these gift kits if they are intended as presents to any member of the armed forces.

As long as Mrs. America restricts herself and her family in travel, there is hope that the government will not be forced to put a drastic clamp down on the custom of going places. Here's how you can help. Save those tires and do not use your car for long holiday trips, and aside from vacations forego travel for mere pleasure. Be a patriotic vacationist and holiday close at home. If you're off for your vacation, arrange your trip so you won't be adding to the heavily increased volume of passengers on railroads and bus lines by going or coming on weekends. Incidentally, because of the travel situation—it looks as if another American custom—attending conventions—will be soft pedaled for the duration.

Your husband's "zoot suit" is bound to be a victory model according to a clarification of the ban on cuffs on men's wool trousers by the WPB apparel section. It seems that since the order originally did not apply to merchant tailors or tailors-to-trade, some people took their suit trousers unfinished from the store to tailors to have cuffs completed. But WPB shook its finger at such a practice and extended the no-cuff ban to trousers made by tailors.

Do you know what a precious stone is? The Office of Price Administration defines "precious stones" as any mounting into which a precious stone is set, and a precious stone as any ruby, sapphire, emerald, natural pearl or any diamond weighing more than one carat. Semi-precious stones are included in the classification if they have been sold for more than $100 by the cutter. When two or more diamonds with an aggregate weight of one and one-half carats are set in one mounting, the diamond is considered precious. Precious stones are exempted from the provisions of the General Maximum Price Regulation.

And speaking of precious stones, consider the quinine in your medicine cabinet. It is an anti-malarial substance that may mean the difference between life and death to members of our armed forces fighting in the tropics. WPB orders will prevent the use of quinine and various other products from the bark of the cinchona tree for non-essential purposes. Except for small parcels of bark from South America, our supplies of cinchona products include only the reserve built up before the war. Ordinarily our supplies come from Java.

Wood—Mrs. America's standby since the all-out drafting of metals, is seeing more and more service. WPB restrictions on both hard and soft woods call attention to military usefulness of wood and its various products such as charcoal for gas masks, cellulose in gun powder and turpentine in flame throwers. Hulls of small torpedo boats and bomb bay doors of bombing planes are among the many uses of plywood. The stocks of Garand rifles feature solid walnut. The lumber that goes into one minesweeper, it is estimated, is the same amount that would go into the making of 20 average civilian homes.

Price control is credited with helping your dollar win the first round of the battle against inflation. For the first time since November 1940, the rising cost-of-living has been checked according to a study by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Declines were noted in rent, clothing and house furnishings. Food costs, which are not entirely under price regulation, rose slightly. Three signposts for you to watch in the continuing battle against inflation is pointed out by the OPA are: Do not buy at prices above the posted maximums, avoid waste and be sparing in purchases.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The Garand semi-automatic rifle, which is the standard issue today for the U. S. army, is superior to the old Springfield rifle in many respects. We literally need millions of these fast shooting powerful rifles to equip our army. They cost $85 each and are being manufactured at the rate of one a minute. They fire sixty 30-calibre shells a minute.

Every one of the 40,000,000 employed persons in America could easily buy one of these rifles for the army. Not that we need that many, but the reserve could go into shells and other much needed supplies. Buy more and more War Bonds and top the quota in your county by investing at least ten percent of your income every pay day.
