American Income Rises 19 Cents; Living Costs Up 10 Cents Over 1941

PURCHASING POWER NOVEMBER 1941 vs NOVEMBER 1942

THE above chart, showing how the average American fared in national income changes in the last twelve months, is based on the monthly consumers' study of Investors Syndicate of Minneapolis.

The American Public in November had a "real income" of $1.19, or an increase of nineteen cents on the dollar over the same 1941 month. This "real income" is not a subtraction of cash income and expenditures but an average relative of these figures designed to show how living costs affect adjusted income dollars.

Cash income of the American public in November was $1.31 for every $1 a year earlier. This gain of thirty-one cents on the dollar resulted from the following changes per dollar: wages up forty-four cents, other income up forty-two cents, and salaries thirty-three cents on the dollar. Investment income at 85 cents was down fifteen cents.

Rents in November were up one cent over a year ago. Clothing was up eleven cents and food was up fifteen cents. Miscellaneous items were two cents higher than in November, 1941.
