

UNITED NATIONS AT WAR

BRAZIL COLLECTS CRAP RUBBER
A recent scrap rubber campaign in Brazil brought in approximately 6,613,000 pounds of rubber for the United Nations war effort.

COATS ORDERED CUT CORN
Because corn fields are "excellent hideouts for partisans," the Croat minister of the interior has ordered all farmers to cut their fields by the end of this month. If they are not cut by then they will be burned. This information, reported by U. S. government monitors, came from a dispatch to newspapers by M.I.T. controlled Hungarian news agency.

CUBANS FIGHT FOR UNITED NATIONS
Five hundred Cuban youths are fighting in the armies of the United Nations, according to General Benitez Valdes, special Cuban delegate to Mexico. The president of Mexican congress reported 10,000 Mexicans are fighting in the U. S. army.

ENROLLMENT BY CHINESE DOUBLES
Twice as many Chinese students are enrolled in college and technical schools since the outbreak of the war, according to the Chungking radio, which said there are now 63,605 students compared to 31,188 at the beginning of the war. A third of the number are now technical students. Science and are the most popular subjects.

DUTCH HORSE MEAT RATION CUT
Nazi occupation authorities in Holland have even cut the Dutch horse meat ration one-third. The weekly meat ration coupons, which used to be good for 150 grams of horse meat now are good for only 100 grams, or about two ounces, according to a report published in a German language daily in Holland.

COAL POOLED IN AUSTRALIA
Coal stocks of consumers throughout Australia will be cut by 12 1/2 per cent and stocks held by all users will be regarded as part of the common pool, according to a recent announcement by the commonwealth coal commissioner. Coal production is highest it has been since the war began but it still does not equal the demand of the war industries.

BRITISH WOMEN GET SPIDER WEB
Collecting spider web for precision sighting instruments is one of the duties performed by women in the British auxiliary territorial service. October spider web, in Great Britain according to experts, is most suitable for sighting instruments. The collection requires a delicate touch and a steady hand. The woman web collector catches a spider with one hand and drops it from one hand to the other. As the spider falls, it spins a fine web. This strand is attached to a metal frame smeared with shellac, and the frames are stored for future use. When this fine strand is not fine enough, ATS craftswomen split a strand in two under the microscope.

ENTERTAINMENT GOES ON
Women of half-a-dozen nationalities are serving as entertainers in the front line entertainment services with the Red army. Shows are staged in dug-outs, dwelling houses, in open fields and woods. Concerts often take place no more than a few hundred yards from enemy lines. Here is a description of such a concert from a letter written by a young Czechoslovak girl singer to her fiancé who is a bomber pilot in Britain: "Just as I began my second song there was a sudden scream as a shell went over. Then the sound of enemy bombers. The whole building was rocked by a terrific explosion. Then the lights went out. I tried to keep on singing but the smell of cordite was too great. It was in my nose, in my throat. I felt as though I was choking. Then mercifully someone lit a kerosene lamp. In the dim light and through the dust I could make out some wreckage and the Red Cross workers moving forward with stretchers. Then my throat and eyes cleared and I fixed my eyes on what had been the roof at the end of the hall and I went on singing."

JAPS RUIN QUININE PLANTATIONS FEARED
Fears that the Japanese are stripping the quinine forests of Java and that, for years after allied liberation of the island, the world may be without its great quinine production were expressed in a Melbourne, Australia Dutch language publication by Netherlands East Indies experts. In peacetime, Java produced 95 per cent of the world's supply of quinine, the most effective drug in the treatment of malaria.

LATIN AMERICA GETS CINCHONA SEEDS
Since that day when two million Cinchona seeds were snatched from under the noses of the Japanese after the fall of Bataan, in the Philippines, more than 110,000 seedlings grown from these seeds have been shipped to Peru, Ecuador, El Salvador and Nicaragua to start the quinine industry for the western hemisphere. When the Japs closed in on Bataan, an American army colonel packed two million seeds in two small cans and set out for Australia in a flying fortress. Two Jap planes attacked, but the fortress reached Port Darwin after dark with one of its motors silenced. From here he took the seeds to General MacArthur's headquarters, thence by boat to San Francisco and by army plane to Washington where he turned them over to the department of agriculture.

Vehicle Travel Down 15 Percent

While motor vehicle travel in Oregon for the first nine months of 1943 dropped 15 per cent in comparison with travel for the same period a year ago, the traffic death rate remained the same, according to a report from the safety division of the secretary of state's office.

Gasoline use figures showed that travel for the month of September this year was ten per cent under the mileage recorded for September of 1942. Gasoline consumption last month amounted to 22,470,967 gallons, compared to 25,020,978 a year ago.

For the first nine months of 1943, there were 172,253,747 gallons of gasoline used in Oregon which is a decrease of 30,971,691 gallons.

The traffic death rate for the first three quarters of this year was 8.7 persons killed per one hundred million miles of travel while for the same period a year ago, the rate was 8.2. Thus, while travel dropped 15 per cent, the death rate actually was slightly higher.
