Helen Spofford, presiding. Two scrap books, 30 crossword puzzles, a box of Western Story magazines and 120 wash cloths were turned in for the Red Cross.

The 200 washcloths the club agreed to supply for the new hospital at Astoria have been made and purchased and sent to St. Helens.

A complete layette was made and presented to a serviceman's wife by the club.

The luncheon served by the club recently was such a success the members voted to hold another on Thursday, July 13th from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. with chicken a la king, mashed potatoes, peas and carrots, vegetable salad and lemon pie on the menu. Reta Lamping will act as chairman. A luncheon is planned for the second Thursday of each month. A different chairman will be in charge each time.

Brewing

Just as certain regions in the old world were favored spots for the production of fine beers, so does this great West provide every advantage to delight the brewer's heart. Here grow the world's choicest golden grains and the finest of aromatic hops. Here the purest of sparkling brewing waters are found. Beer is essentially a product of nature and nowhere has nature been more lavish in her gifts. As a result, beers from this region are known and favored throughout the nation for their buoyant zest and golden refreshment. Where else in all the world can man find such varied resources at hand for all the good things of life as in this bountiful West?
