Sawdust. . .

Jewett Bush has his winter's supply of firwood but it happens to be a large log uncured in sizes for the stove. He's wondering how to get it cut without having to do it himself and has been thinking of offering prizes for the fastest job of cutting to anyone who wishes to compete. All of which brought forth the story of Hiram VanBlaricom who wagered Roy Raymond some years ago that he, Hi, could cut a cord of wood faster than Roy. After cutting up a cord or two and losing bets on both cords, Hi paid off his bet with Roy, having enough wood cut by that time to last for the winter. Who won that one?

Dan Cason resents the fact that his new sidewalk was not mentioned via a news article after its completion. Dan failed to read sawdust a week or so after it was poured for it was mentioned then. Dan's proud of that sidewalk, saying it's the only cement walk on Rose Ave. Maybe he's right in that for all we know. And Dan doesn't fail to remind Harry Kerns that he, Dan, has the better sidewalk now.

Heard of "water witching" but didn't expect to see it happen on Bridge street. Hank King and Walt Kent trying to locate a leak under the pavement in front of the bakery; busy digging holes; along comes Charlie Biggs and with a forked willow branch begins "witching." Willow acts bewitched over water main and service line, remains to be seen if leak is in the latter. Paul Gordon tries hand at same-fails. Doc Eby has Charlie close his (Charlie's) eyes and heads him toward the scene-willow witches as before. Black magic? Must be. Charlie says any stick will perform for him, but willow better because it's more flexible. Claims he first realized his "talent" in 1927. Ah, sweet mystery of life!

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Yes, I'm afraid there's no denyin' it, Judge... jeeps and trucks and other kinds of motorized equipment have taken the place of the good old horse in modern warfare."

"It's true of lots of things in this war, Eben. Every day we hear of new tactics and requirements and new uses of products. For instance, take the alcohol that is used for war purposes. In World War 1, this vitally needed product was used mostly in making smokeless powder, chemical warfare materials and medical supplies. Today it must do far more... it must provide the base for such indispensable products as synthetic rubber, shatterproof glass, lacquers, plastics and many other of our requirements so essential to victory.

"As a result hundreds of millions of gallons are required every year... half of which is being produced by the beverage distilling industry. Bet you didn't know that, Eben." "As a matter of fact, I didn't, Judge. That's a mighty important war contribution that had escaped me completely."
