Nation's Economy in Good Balance, Survey Reveals

MINNEAPOLIS—With average purchasing power continuing high, the economic condition of the country is excellent, the monthly Investors Syndicate survey of "real income" reports. "Real income" is the relationship of revenue to living costs.

The buying power of the average family is 3 per cent higher than a year ago, the survey shows. Balance between wages, salaries, investment income and farm revenue continues to improve, giving the economy a healthy stability.

Barring a major inflationary surge resulting from a new round of wage increases, the average consumer will probably continue to be better off in 1948 than in 1947, Investors Syndicate said. Though prices, particularly of food, are still rising, they are not going up as fast as family income.

"All predictions made last year that an early slump was inevitable have been proved false," said E. E. Crabb, chairman and president of Investors Syndicate, a leading distributor of investment certificates. "The soundness of the economy has been proved by the way normal balances are being maintained between costs and income, and among various types of income. Economically, the nation seems to be in excellent condition."
