WOODS FULL OF HUNTERS

—Rev. Paul D. Sisler

The woods are literally and figuratively full of hunters these days. Red hats, blazing guns, deer-draped jalopies, and venison steaks symbolize the one kind of hunting. Schools, churches, theatres, auto-filled highways, taverns, night clubs, athletic stadiums, and many other things tell the figurative story.

We are all hunters. We're trying to bag the life that fully satisfies. It's rather costly business, too. Not many come out of the woods with that which really satisfies the soul.

There are many confusing claims being made about how to identify the game that's really worth while going after, and how to go about tracking it to its lair. Strange as it may seem, not many of us use even common sense in sorting out the valid claims from the empty ones. We listen to the ones who shout the loudest, and put on the biggest show. Their tables and lockers may be empty, but we give heed to their bold bravado just the same.

We needn't get the idea that hunting for the big game of abundant life is a cinch. It isn't. And that's the rub. Most of us are looking for a short cut, and that's why we come out of the woods empty-handed.

The Master Hunter tells us that he came "that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." It's a stiff course, this "Life Hunting," but you get the limit without fail if you sincerely follow every step of the instructions. How about it, fellow hunters? Will you enroll in the class that assures you true life happiness and satisfaction or will you gamble with the glittering, empty claims of the shortcuts and go meatless this coming season? It's up to you.

Services are nightly except Monday and Saturday nights. Sunday Rev. Benjamin will speak at the morning worship at 11 a.m. and again at 7:30 p.m. Everyone is welcomed to these services.

No Bomb Can Hurt

Grandfather is telling Midget how a bomb might be dropped from a plane and blow up the city and kill all the people. Hear Midget's answer — "But grandfather it couldn't hurt me for I belong to Jesus and He is everywhere and He will have me with Him."

Away back in His days here on earth, Jesus saw the little ones turn to Him as being strong and wise and loving. And said He—Except you turn and become as little children, you shall in no way enter the Kingdom of Heaven.—BIBLE, Matthew 18:3.

TURN AND TRUST—So Jesus bids us turn and trust in Him. Stand on it that Christ the Son died for all your sins and God gives you eternal life with himself. From then on all your life—sunshine or showers—look utterly to Christ to power you.—Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and you shall be saved—Acts 13: 31.

California Trip to Locate Place Started

MIST — Chas. Egerton and his stepfather left for California Monday morning, the latter to locate a place to live there. He with his wife, the former wife of the late Roy Egerton whom most people remember used to operate a store in Clatskanie under the name of Simmons and Egerton many years ago, came up here from California this summer and have been staying with a son, Leonard Egerton. They are going back to California.

Church Slates Harvest Festival

High point in the annual Harvest Home Festival to be held Sunday morning at the Evangelical United Brethren church will be the reunion of former friends and members of the church at the noon pot-luck dinner to be held in the church social hall. Another feature of interest is the display during the Sunday school and morning worship hours of fruits and vegetables gathered from the gardens and farms of the community.

Begun during the pastorate of the late Rev. G. W. Plumer, this occasion has come to be a cherished tradition in the life of the church and the entire community. The public is being given a special invitation to participate in the event.

Anyone having contributions to be made to the Harvest Home display is asked to bring them to the church on Saturday. To insure return of the contributions, the owner should mark them with some adequate means of identification.
