Alder Volume Table Compiled

A red alder volume table designed to aid all hardwood loggers and mill men in Oregon, has been completed through the cooperative efforts of the Oregon state board of forestry, the Pacific Northwest forest and range experiment station, British Columbia forest service and the Weyerhaeuser Timber Company, according to George Spaur, state forester.

The forester stated that increased logging and milling operations in alder stands created a demand for the volume table. The tables have been printed on a convenient pocket size card and indicate the board foot volumes of standing or felled and bucked alder timber.

Spaur stated that the pocket card and a five-page research bulletin containing additional information may be obtained free of charge by writing to the state forester's office in Salem.

Compilation of the alder volume table was made possible by funds obtained from the forest research and experimental tax act of 1947.
