G.I.'s in Korea May Get Benefits

American servicemen called into action in Southern Korea might be eligible for several benefits administered by the Veterans Administration, it has been announced.

Those who suffer injury or disease in line of duty may be entitled to disability compensation pay at full wartime rates, despite the fact that this nation is not at war.

Dependent of those who might lose their lives in action may be entitled to death compensation benefits at wartime rates.

Full wartime rates for disability and death compensation, arising under conditions similar to the Korean situation, are authorized by public law 359, 77th

Congress, passed 12 days after the attack on Pearl Harbor in 1941.

Under that law, wartime rates are payable for disability or death resulting from injury or disease received in line of duty (1) as a direct result of armed conflict, or (2) while engaged in extra hazardous service, including such service under conditions simulating war, or (3) while the United States is engaged in war.

The Korean action brings the first and second categories into play.
