Candid Forestry By FISHER

Aid of Psychologists May Be Needed To Lick Man-Caused Fire Problem

Psychologists may be enlisted to lick a vexing forest fire problem, say western forestry leaders.

Nine out of every ten man-caused forest fires start within 100 yards of main travelled roads and highways. Cigarettes thrown out of moving cars by careless motorists, campfires left unattended and uncontrolled debris burning are the major causes of blazes which take a toll of millions of dollars annually of valuable young trees and timber.

How to reduce this carelessness stumps forestry experts who have used every known method of education in recent years. True, points out W. D. Hagenstein, chief forester of Industrial Forestry association, the number of man-caused forest conflagrations have been cut by two thirds since 1940 with the advent of the Keep Green program in 36 states of the

Benefits Now Comparable to Those Granted Veterans of World War II

The U. S. Army and air force recruiting service announces that benefits comparable to those granted to veterans of World War II are available to those who enlist or have served in the armed forces since June 26, 1950. There will be aid for those who want to go to school; loans for those who want to go into business and special credit terms for those who want to go into business and special credit terms for those who want to build or buy a home.

Educational benefits extended to a veteran are one and one-half times the months of active service since the start of the Korean conflict, up to a maximum of 36 months. The recruiting service pointed out that a man who has served two years, or 24 months, could get 36 months of free schooling which is the equivalent of four years course of study at a school having nine months of study a year.

While going to school, a veteran will receive from the government a monthly check for $110 if single, $135 if married or $160 if married with one or more children. The check is sent directly to the veteran and he is responsible for paying his school tuition and other fees. On the job training is available under the new GI bill. Veterans will be paid while learning a trade, trade or skill. Government payments start at $70 a month with additional payments for those with dependents.

The loan provisions of veterans of world war II is extended to those who served after June 26, 1950. The government will support up to 60% of a home loan for a veteran with a maximum guarantee of $7,500. On business loans, the guarantee is up to 50%, with a maximum of $2000 backed by the VA, or $4000, if the loan is for business real estate.

Mustering out pay is included in the bill for enlisted men and junior officers who are discharged from the service. This can be drawn by servicemen up to the grade of captain. Rates of mustering out pay are as follows: $100 for persons on active duty for less than 60 days; $200 for one
